Castro's New Policy Confuses Havanans

HAVANA (AP) — The average Cuban is just as confused as foreigners are about the reasons for Prime Minister Fidel Castro's new open door policy for Cubans wanting to go to the United States.

"Humanitarian he is not," said an elderly Negro maid. "There is something more to it than what he says in public."

"I think he got caught up in his own rhetoric and now he can't back down," said a barber.

"He's sincere and Cuba has never closed the doors on those wanting to leave," said a government official. "It was the Americans who cut off all flights so that no one could leave."

"It is evident that this is another case of saying one thing and doing something else," said a taxi driver. "He will come out of it with a big propaganda victory — some way."

"I think he's really trying to unite long separated families," said a militiaman.

These are typical comments in a sampling of opinion on the biggest topic of conversation here since the October 1962 missile crisis.

Curiously, the Cubans are talking about it openly, apparently figuring there is safety in numbers. Nine out of ten conversations are about the possibilities of leaving Cuba.

People shout to one another across the street: "When are you leaving for Camarioca?" Many are jesting. Others are serious. The name of the little fishing village designated as the Refugee Exodus Hits High Gear

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Cape Shoalwater and Lamar steamed to Key West today, loaded with 94 more refugees, and the exodus of people from Communist Cuba continued to grow in proportion.

The Cape Shoalwater picked up 24 exiles rescued from a sinking 18-foot boat in the choppy Florida Straits which separate Cuba from Florida. The cutter also was towing another boat carrying 28 refugees.

The Damar followed the Shoalwater in with another 42 Cubans aboard.

Elsewhere in the rough waters, other Coast Guard patrol ships were towing disabled craft, carrying sick refugees and running down reports that more boats were on the way.

Stormy weather in the area of Camarioca, Castro's refugee exit point, had slowed the migration, but one Cuban aboard the Shoalwater said thousands were ready to leave when it could be arranged.

The Coast Guard cutter Cape Darby brought 39 seaskiff refugees into Key West Tuesday night after four- and five-foot waves threatened to swamp their boats. Most of them were elderly. Some children were aboard also.

Eight crewmen who picked up the 39 in Cuba remained with their craft although they had to be towed into port.

One of the eight said that at least 10 boats were waiting at Camarioca to ferry refugees to Florida.

The Coast Guard said it had stopped and warned at least 40 boats leaving the Florida coast that the trip was illegal. Few turned back.

There was no estimate on how many have slipped past the busy cutters unnoticed.

A U.S. Welfare Department official in Washington estimated that 42,500 refugees will come to Florida before the end of next June.

Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of welfare, said in testimony made public Tuesday that 2,500 were expected this month and 5,000 a month for the rest of the year.

Gov. Haydon Burns of Florida met with State Department officials and expressed fear that the wave of refugees may renew the massive dislocations that hit south Florida during the first exodus in 1962.

He asked that refugees be required to agree to resettlement as a precondition for being accepted.

The United States is still negotiating with the Cuban government for a system of orderly movement of exiles.

One of the refugees who arrived Tuesday night, Horatio Martinez, said he didn't know he would be able to leave until the secret service knocked on his door in Havana late Monday night.

He said he was given one hour to collect what he wanted to take. Everything else was seized, he said.

Coming Weekend Seen Good for Fall Colors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's park managers report that the weekend should bring a pretty good show of color in Ohio's state parks.

Lake Hope State Park is ahead of the rest and reports that all colors should be at peak this weekend.

Once Around Roundtown

THE LATIN Quarter in New York City on Sunday evening is certain to be packed with friends and associates of Ted and Adah Lewis wishing them a "happy golden wedding anniversary".

In addition to the Lewis anniversary, five other anniversaries will be observed. . . . They include the 35th anniversary of the Ted Lewis Playhouse, the 30th anniversary of the Sophie Tucker Playground, the 20th anniversary of the Michael Stone Fund, the 13th anniversary of the Myrtle Friedman Bunkhouse and the 9th anniversary of the Adah Lewis Stadium. . . .

Sponsor of the celebration is the Junior Macons Assn. which represents a group of charities, according to Circleville Mayor Ben Gordon.

THE TROUBLE Circleville Firemen had in starting a fire in Lowery Lane last night prompted one wag to comment that the city "should send them to arson school".

The Lowery Lane Mission wished an unoccupied dwelling on church property destroyed. Mission officials contacted Chief Bernard Wolfe, who immediately scheduled a training session for his department. . . .

Slated to go up in flames shortly after 5 p. m. yesterday, it was much later in the evening when the old building burned. . . . Every means the firemen tried to set fire to the building failed for one solid hour. . . .

Last night's training session gave local firemen practical experience in the application of water to a burning dwelling.

MAYOR GORDON appeared rather unhappy today concerning a newspaper showing a 197-pound pumpkin displayed in the "Biggest Pumpkin" contest last week in Stow, near Akron.

The entry was referred to as possibly the largest pumpkin ever grown in Ohio.

Gordon contends, first of all, the entry appeared to be a squash, not a pumpkin, and that squash entered in the annual Circleville Pumpkin Show would exceed 250 pounds.

The Circleville Pumpkin Show opens next Wednesday.

CLARENCE W. WOLF

Retired Grocer C. W. Wolf Dies in Columbus Hospital

Clarence W. Wolf, 78, veteran Circleville businessman who lived at 212 E. Mound St., died yesterday in Columbus.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Anthony's Hospital.

Born June 20, 1887, in Stoutsville, Mr. Wolf was the son of George and Hannah Shupe Wolf.

A retired grocer, he operated stores in Circleville for 45 years. He was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church and the Knights of Pythias Lodge.

He is survived by his widow,

Lola Dumm Wolf, two daughters, Mrs. Luther Bower, 618 Beverly Road; Mrs. Edward Phebus, Lancaster; four grandchildren and six great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Ethel Stout, 316 E. Franklin St.

Funeral services will be 2:30 p. m. Friday in the Lutheran Church with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Friends may call at the Deffenbaugh funeral home beginning 7 p. m. today.

Marion Park Slated To Get $110,000 for Improvements

Marvin Rebholz, chief of the Division of Parks of the Department of Natural Resources, reports that $110,000 has been allocated for land acquisition and physical improvements at A. W. Marion State Park.

According to Rebholz, Housebill 202 earmarked $50,000 for the local park. A subsequent appropriations measure, HB 949, dividing the funds made possible through the passage of a state bond issue in May, allocated $60,000 for the local park.

Approximately one-half of this money will be used for land acquisition, according to the parks chief.

The division has expressed an interest in acquiring land owned by Pickaway County at the Children's Home and at the County Infirmary to add to the park acreage.

THE CHILDREN'S Home property is adjacent to the park.

All of these funds have become available since July. Final plans for expenditures for improvements have not yet been completed.

Long range plans at the park include improved roads leading to all sections of the lake and construction of a swimming beach.

The division of parks is considering a number of rules changes at present. One involves park policy concerning the use of electric trolling motors on the smaller bodies of water.

Presently prohibited in many lakes under the control of the division, a proposed rule change would permit the use of electric trolling motors on any body of water under the supervision of the division.

Tshombe Out As Premier Of Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — President Joseph Kasavubu dismissed the government of Premier Moise Tshombe today and called on Evariste Kimba, a deputy from North Katanga, to form a new one.

Kimba is a member of the Baluba tribe which traditionally is hostile to Tshombe's Lunda tribe. But Kimba was Tshombe's foreign minister after Katanga Province seceded in 1960.

There had been speculation Kasavubu would dissolve the government then call on Tshombe to form a new one with the understanding that his cabinet include supporters of Interior Minister Victor Nendaka.

The president's action, announced in a speech to a joint session of Parliament, came after a period of intense rivalry between Tshombe and Nendaka.

Tshombe took office July 8, 1964, after returning from year's exile in Europe following the defeat of his Katanga secession by United Nations forces. He returned to a country torn by rebellion. Ignoring African opinion, he hired white mercenary troops who have succeeded in bringing the rebels under control in much of The Congo.

U.S. Tapers Off In Cong Sector

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (AP) — One battalion of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, Airborne, remained in contact with the Viet Cong in the Suai Ca Valley of the central highlands today, but the rest of the big American force was pulling out.

Maj. Gen. Harry Kinnard, the commander of the division, said the Communists apparently were defending their wounded and would fight until they could carry them away.

At last count 34 Viet Cong bodies had been counted and 93 guerrillas were captured in the four-day Operation Shiny Bayonet in the valley 25 miles northeast of An Khe. The Americans estimated at least 44 more Viet Cong had been killed by artillery or air attack.

It was the airmobile division's first big operation since arriving in Viet Nam a month ago. U.S. losses were described as light, but one company of the battalion still in contact with the Viet Cong was under fire from mortars and automatic weapons all night and suffered moderate casualties.

The American battalions removed large stores of captured rice, soybeans, peanuts and salt as they withdrew. Kinnard acknowledged that his men had not killed many Viet Cong, but he said they had taken large amounts of vital supplies from the enemy.

Many baskets of Viet Cong documents were also captured. The field commander of the operation, Col. Thomas Brown of West Point, N.Y., said prisoners had reported that enemy units were aware of the operation in advance and had been told to pull out of the area Saturday, the day before the operation began.

No contact was reported with elements of the 325th Division of the North Vietnamese army, which had been reported operating in the area.

The Viet Cong did fight a series of delaying actions and received a heavy pounding from helicopter rocket ships and artillery.

Shiny bayonet was considered more of a pacification attempt than a search and kill operation, Kinnard said. He said a civil affairs unit would be moved into the area immediately and a district chief would be appointed.

Carrier FDR, French Merchantman Collide

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Navy headquarters said the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt and the French merchant ship Charles Le Borne collided about 100 miles southeast of Marseille early today.

No injuries were reported aboard either ship, and the Navy said neither required aid from other American ships in the area.

RFK Urges Red China Join A - Arms Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy proposed today that Communist China be invited to join Geneva talks aimed at an agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, called in a prepared Senate speech for accelerated U.S. efforts to "enlist the help of the United Nations, and all other nations — including Communist China — in the effort to prevent nuclear catastrophe."

Asserting that China could pass on nuclear capability to nations which do not have it now, Kennedy said that it may be possible to win some agreement despite the hostility of Red China's leaders to the United States.

"The rulers of China may be persuaded that their long-run interest, like that of the United

He emphasized that American troops would be close at hand should the Viet Cong return to the valley.

There was no official word of what happened to three battalions of Vietnamese army troops whose mission was to enter from the high end of the valley. Two Vietnamese marine battalions did reach their destination and were in contact with the Americans.

Three hundred refugees were taken to a nearby refugee camp and will be relocated.

Berger Levy Questions Answered

Berger Hospital's General Guild has undertaken a project to compile and answer questions concerning the proposed half - mill levy to support the hospital's general operating fund.

Inquiries relative to all functions at the hospital and why the levy is being presented at the November election are welcomed. Questions may be forwarded to: HOSPITAL QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS, GENERAL DELIVERY, CIRCLEVILLE, O.

Here is one of the most common inquiries now being asked:

Q — Why is an operating levy being placed on the Nov. 2 Ballot for Berger Hospital?

A. — Berger Hospital is now operating at a deficit. To improve services, both regular and emergency, extra funds must be raised. The city of Circleville and Pickaway County are responsible for operation of Berger Hospital. Funds are not available from either of these sources. The Board of County Commissioners has placed this issue on the Nov. 2 ballot in an effort to secure these needed funds.

Scientist Calls Sight 'Colossal'

Spectacle Visible Hour Before Dawn

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — A newly discovered comet, bright as the Big Dipper, appears in the sky today.

The spectacle is expected to build to a peak in about eight days, when the comet reaches its closest point to the sun.

During that time, early risers across the nation will have the chance to see an historic celestial display, beginning daily about an hour before sunrise.

Anthony F. Aveni, director of the Colgate University Observatory here, said Tuesday that the first view would develop into "the most colossal celestial spectacle of the 20th century."

The peak of the spectacle, Aveni said, will come about Oct. 21, when the comet will be in a spiraling death dance as it passes within 20,000 miles of the sun's surface.

"It could be broken up into smaller units," Aveni said. "In any event, after one pass at the sun, it will be gone forever, never to return."

He noted that the Ikeya-Seki comet, named after two Japanese amateur astronomers who discovered it Sept. 28, was the first major comet to approach the earth since Halley's Comet came into view in 1910.

Halley's comet, however, follows an elliptical path and is expected to reappear near the earth again in 1986.

Baby Girl Dies in Stolen Car

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Five-week-old Sonia Reed was found dead Tuesday night in the front seat of her family's car 10 hours after the car was stolen while her mother shopped for groceries.

The infant, still neatly dressed in a pink gown and pink booties and covered with a blanket, was found about 10 p. m. a few blocks from the grocery store parking lot from which she and the car disappeared about noon.

Police ordered an autopsy, but one officer said the child "in all probability" died of exposure. He said there were no marks of violence on the child's body. Temperatures ranged in the mid-60s during the evening hours before the infant was found. Windows of the car were open.

The child's mother, Ray Lee Reed, 23, told police she left her daughter in the front seat of the car for about five minutes while she shopped for a few items. She returned to find both the car and the baby missing. Mrs. Reed said she had left the keys in the car.

Economic Opportunity Plan Approval Is Expected Here

Approval of Pickaway County's Economic Opportunity project appears to be assured within 30 days, according to E. G. Grigg, president of the group directing the local program.

Project approval would mean funds will be made available for the program here. Harvey Alston of the Ohio Office of Economic Opportunity has informed Grigg that there is every reason to expect an okay by regional offices in Chicago and Washington.

A provision has also been made for Pickaway County to work with any adjacent county for mutual benefit. Earlier this year, a proposal for Pickaway and Fairfield counties to combine for a joint EOA district was defeated. Local directors felt that the organization could function more adequately on an individual basis.

Applications for a project director are being accepted by Fritz Jacobs, secretary of the organization. The person named will handle the study project, the beginning activity.

APPLICATIONS will be taken by Jacobs at the high school building where the organization will have office space.

The Executive Committee of the Economic Opportunity Organization will interview qualified applicants and prepare recommendations for the Board of Trustees that represent Pickaway County.

Qualifications for the director's position include: rural and urban oriented, experience in community service and development, experience in working with rural and urban people in a leadership role, high moral standards, college education or equivalent in the field. Salary for the position has been established.

Also to be employed will be a clerk-secretary and an individual to aid in the collection data from individuals to be served by the organization. Qualifications for the clerk's post include: high school graduation, a typing skill of at least 40 words per minute, ability to operate office equipment, meet the public and ability to perform general office duties.

Grigg said a provision has been made for a number of the Board of Trustees to be selected from people who will be served by projects selected. This is being done in order they may participate in carrying out various programs.

interpret our civility as a sign of weakness."

He added "We can never know the results until we make the attempt."

In a wide-ranging survey of the world situation, Kennedy called for (1) greater U.S. flexibility in negotiating with Russia on a nonproliferation nuclear treaty, (2) creation of nuclear free zones, especially in Latin America, (3) extension of the limited nuclear test ban treaty to cover underground explosions and (4) action to reverse the U.S. and Russian growth of nuclear capability.

Kennedy praised steps that President Johnson has taken in this field. When he called for more effort to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons several months ago, the White House comment was that it was glad Kennedy was also interested in this effort.

Marion Park Slated To Get $110,000 for Improvements

Marvin Rebholz, chief of the Division of Parks of the Department of Natural Resources, reports that $110,000 has been allocated for land acquisition and physical improvements at A. W. Marion State Park.

According to Rebholz, Housebill 202 earmarked $50,000 for the local park. A subsequent appropriations measure, HB 949, dividing the funds made possible through the passage of a state bond issue in May, allocated $60,000 for the local park.

All of these funds have become available since July. Final plans for expenditures for improvements have not yet been completed.

Long range plans at the park include improved roads leading to all sections of the lake and construction of a swimming beach.

The division of parks is considering a number of rules changes at present. One involves park policy concerning the use of electric trolling motors on the smaller bodies of water.

Presently prohibited in many lakes under the control of the division, a proposed rule change would permit the use of electric trolling motors on any body of water under the supervision of the division.

The arid Southwest baked in 90- and 100-degree heat and scattered frost whitened the United States from southeastern Missouri to North Carolina.

The mercury hit 98 in Tucson Tuesday, while it rose to 102 in the California desert town of Thermal.

Frost struck today between Missouri, North Carolina and the upper Great Lakes, where snow fell Tuesday. Cadillac, Mich., had a two-inch fall and flurries whipped through other upper Great Lakes areas.

Scientist Calls Sight 'Colossal'

Spectacle Visible Hour Before Dawn

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — A newly discovered comet, bright as the Big Dipper, appears in the sky today.

The spectacle is expected to build to a peak in about eight days, when the comet reaches its closest point to the sun.

During that time, early risers across the nation will have the chance to see an historic celestial display, beginning daily about an hour before sunrise.

Anthony F. Aveni, director of the Colgate University Observatory here, said Tuesday that the first view would develop into "the most colossal celestial spectacle of the 20th century."

The peak of the spectacle, Aveni said, will come about Oct. 21, when the comet will be in a spiraling death dance as it passes within 20,000 miles of the sun's surface.

"It could be broken up into smaller units," Aveni said. "In any event, after one pass at the sun, it will be gone forever, never to return."

He noted that the Ikeya-Seki comet, named after two Japanese amateur astronomers who discovered it Sept. 28, was the first major comet to approach the earth since Halley's Comet came into view in 1910.

Halley's comet, however, follows an elliptical path and is expected to reappear near the earth again in 1986.

Baby Girl Dies in Stolen Car

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Five-week-old Sonia Reed was found dead Tuesday night in the front seat of her family's car 10 hours after the car was stolen while her mother shopped for groceries.

The infant, still neatly dressed in a pink gown and pink booties and covered with a blanket, was found about 10 p.m. a few blocks from the grocery store parking lot from which she and the car disappeared about noon.

Police ordered an autopsy, but one officer said the child "in all probability" died of exposure. He said there were no marks of violence on the child's body. Temperatures ranged in the mid-60s during the evening hours before the infant was found. Windows of the car were open.

The child's mother, Ray Lee Reed, 23, told police she left her daughter in the front seat of the car for about five minutes while she shopped for a few items. She returned to find both the car and the baby missing. Mrs. Reed said she had left the keys in the car.

RFK Urges Red China Join A-Arms Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy proposed today that Communist China be invited to join in Geneva talks aimed at an agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, called in a prepared Senate speech for accelerated U.S. efforts to "enlist the help of the United Nations, and all other nations — including Communist China — in the effort to prevent nuclear catastrophe."

Asserting that China could pass on nuclear capability to nations which do not have it now, Kennedy said that it may be possible to win some agreement despite the hostility of Red China's leaders to the United States.

"The rulers of China may be persuaded that their long-run interest, like that of the United States and all other nations, lies not in the spread of nuclear weapons but in their strict control," Kennedy said.

"We are now engaged in regular discussions with the Chinese ambassador in Warsaw. But these are not the only possible means to explore possible Chinese accession to a system of nuclear control. We should, at the outset, invite the Chinese to participate in the disarmament talks at Geneva when those talks resume in January."

"If they accept, the negotiations will be more meaningful — for they will then include all the nuclear powers. If the Chinese refuse, we will have lost nothing. We will have opened another door to peace, and the Chinese will show to the world that they are not interested. I think no one, looking at U.S. foreign policy since 1961, will

He added "We can never know the results until we make the attempt."

In a wide-ranging survey of the world situation, Kennedy called for (1) greater U.S. flexibility in negotiating with Russia on a nonproliferation nuclear treaty, (2) creation of nuclear free zones, especially in Latin America, (3) extension of the limited nuclear test ban treaty to cover underground explosions and (4) action to reverse the U.S. and Russian growth of nuclear capability.

Kennedy praised steps that President Johnson has taken in this field. When he called for more effort to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons several months ago, the White House comment was that it was glad Kennedy was also interested in this effort.

Economic Opportunity Plan Approval Is Expected Here

Approval of Pickaway County's Economic Opportunity project appears to be assured within 30 days, according to E. G. Grigg, president of the group directing the local program.

Project approval would mean funds will be made available for the program here. Harvey Alston of the Ohio Office of Economic Opportunity has informed Grigg that there is every reason to expect an okay by regional offices in Chicago and Washington.

A provision has also been made for Pickaway County to work with any adjacent county for mutual benefit. Earlier this year, a proposal for Pickaway and Fairfield counties to combine for a joint EOA district was defeated. Local directors felt that the organization could function more adequately on an individual basis.

Applications for a project director are being accepted by Fritz Jacobs, secretary of the organization. The person named will handle the study project, the beginning activity.

APPLICATIONS will be taken by Jacobs at the high school building where the organization will have office space.

The Executive Committee of the Economic Opportunity Organization will interview qualified applicants and prepare recommendations for the Board of Trustees that represent Pickaway County.

Qualifications for the director's position include: rural and urban oriented, experience in community service and development, experience in working with rural and urban people in a leadership role, high moral standards, college education or equivalent in the field. Salary for the position has been established.

Also to be employed will be a clerk-secretary and an individual to aid in the collection data from individuals to be served by the organization.

Qualifications for the clerk's post include: high school graduation, a typing skill of at least 40 words per minute, ability to operate office equipment, meet the public and ability to perform general office duties.

Grigg said a provision has been made for a number of the Board of Trustees to be selected from people who will be served by projects selected. This is being done in order they may participate in carrying out various programs.

Members of the Central Ohio Teachers Assn. will meet in Columbus on Oct. 22 for their 94th annual convention. Dr. Robert S. Brown, president of the organization, announced today. Dr. Brown is superintendent of schools in Marion.

Superintendent George McDowell said Pickaway County Schools will be closed all day to enable local teachers to attend the convention.

Theme of the convention is "Education and the International Understanding."

Per Capita Debt Of County Listed

The per capita debts of local governments in Pickaway County was $158.76 at the close of the 1964 calendar year, according to a report from the office of Roger Cloud, state auditor.

This compares to the state average of $275.14. The per capita debt throughout the state ranged from $59.18 in Carroll County to $513.86 in Lake County.

The county has a total debt of $5,692,279.

Of this amount $12,904 is owed by townships, $85,882 by the county, $1,460,493 by city and villages in the county and $4,133,000 by schools.

VA Hospital Needs Volunteers

The Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe needs 93 volunteers for spare time assistance to patients, according to local Red Cross officials.

The need is especially acute in the geriatric ward where elderly patients need help at mealtime, in writing letters, reading and in many cases, just having someone to talk with.

Mrs. G. A. Wyllie, spokesman for the volunteer service project, said that men, with a few spare hours weekly, are needed and are urged to contact the Red Cross offices and arrange for the orientation training.

The training program has been scheduled three times at the VA Hospital — Oct. 18, 25, and Nov. 1, from 9:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Recent additions to the local volunteer service group include Mrs. James Robinson, Mrs. Herman Will, Alvin Recobs, Mr. and Mrs. Mark DeLong, Mrs. William Goss and R. E. Gosnell.

astronomer at the University of California at Berkeley, disputes a prediction by Russian astronomers who say the comet will hit the sun.

Observers in the mid-Pacific and Japan will see it at its brightest, he said, when the sun's heat and intense radiation may break up the comet as it passes about 300,000 miles from the center of the sun.

Aveni said the comet comes into view in the East about an hour before sunrise, at a point about 10 degrees south of the sun's position on the horizon.

"The time at which the comet will be visible at other points in the country," he said, "should only vary up to an hour."

He predicted that by "Oct. 21, the comet will be the brightest object in the heavens, with the exception of the sun and moon."

In New York City, where the comet has been watched from Hayden Planetarium for several days, astronomer K.L. Franklin said it appears as a silvery line low in the eastern sky about an hour before dawn.

Franklin said that "it's not very bright... but it's likely to get quite a bit brighter" and that it should edge out of the pre-dawn sky in about three days. But it will not be visible to the naked eye in daylight, unless it becomes "very bright," he told reporters.

"A comet is quite unpredictable," Franklin cautioned.

Steels Pace Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels shouldered their way into market leadership early this afternoon as the speculative high flyers which have paced recent sessions broke into irregularity.

Trading was active in a highly scrambled market which witnessed slight declines in popular averages.

The steels made a rare show of strength as they responded unanimously to news of U. S. Steel's price boost for tin-plated steel.

U. S. Steel Common, getting a rare piece of attention from the trading public, rose 1/2 to 49 on a block of 35,000 shares and then pushed its advance to well over a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .3 at 347.5 with industrials off .4, rails up .1 and utilities off .3. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .77 at 940.35.

Muny Judge Levels $500 Fine, 6-Month Jail Term

Oscar Ramsey, 34, Lancaster, involved in an accident that occurred on S. Pickaway St. Monday night, was fined $500 and costs, sentenced to six months in the County Jail and had his driving rights suspended for one year by Judge Sterling Lamb.

Cited to appear in Municipal Court today by Circleville Patrolman Richard Anderson, Ramsey entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Don McFarland, 50, of 219 Cedar Heights Road, entered a plea of guilty in Municipal Court to speeding 60 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. He was fined $50 and costs by the judge with $15 of the fine suspended.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were:

Arthur Rohrer Jr., 30, Washington, C. H.; $10 and costs for a red light violation.

John Davey, 20, Columbus; $10 and costs for driving a motor vehicle not equipped with a legal muffler.

William D. Fenech, 34, Dearborn, Mich.; $50 and costs for passing a school bus stopped to discharge children.

Francis Neff, 37, Williamsport; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

John Nipper, Jr., 30, Melvindale, Mich.; $25 bond forfeiture for speeding 50 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone.

Walter Hiatt, 34, Lancaster; $19 bond forfeiture for a red light violation.

U.S. Jetliners Showing Profit

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. airline took off into the jet age 10 years ago and soon flew into rough weather with heavy costs and too many empty seats. But now most carriers are flying high with record profits.

On Oct. 13, 1955, Pan American World Airways ordered the first U.S. commercial jets, touching off a scramble by airlines to provide jet service.

Today, about 35 per cent of the 1,884 aircraft flown by the nation's airlines are jets. The jet fleet will double by 1969. Airline industry profits soared to $138.9 million in the first half of this year. The total for the same period last year was $79.3 million.

Jet routes include not only the 2,451 miles between New York and Los Angeles but also the 173 miles between Buffalo, N.Y., and Cleveland, Ohio.

Between 1955 and 1964, turbine-powered aircraft acquired by the airlines — almost all of which were pure jets — cost $4.5 billion. In the next five years, the total cost is expected to climb to at least $8.2 billion.

No only do jets cost plenty, but at first they added to the seating capacity of airlines at a faster rate than demand for seats increased.

Between 1958, when jets were first put into service, and 1962, available seat miles on airlines increased 30.3 per cent while revenue passenger miles went up only 13 per cent. By 1961, the airlines reported a loss of almost $38 million.

The turning point in the jet age arrive three years ago.

Airline profits, reflecting higher passenger demand with the growth of the leisure dollar, rebounded to $52 million in 1963. In 1962, they grew to $77 million. Last year, profits jumped to $226 million.

William Hough, 40, Columbus; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Gerald Warner, 20, Groveport; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Billy Joe Spradlin, 31, Montezuma, Ga.; $24 bond forfeiture for changing lanes without caution.

Bobby Potter, 24, Portland, Ore.; $19 bond forfeiture for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Meningitis Detected, but School Open

Darby Twp. Elementary School will remain open despite a case of infectious meningitis detected there.

Leslie Tyffe, a fifth grader at the school, has been admitted to Children's Hospital, Columbus, as a meningitis patient. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tyffe.

Pickaway County Superintendent of Schools George McDowell announced the school will not be closed.

He noted that Westfall School officials were following the advice of both Dr. Frank Moore of the Pickaway County Board of Health and the State Board of Health in keeping the school open.

Students in the school who have been exposed have been advised to contact their personal physicians concerning preventive medication and measures they should take.

Car Believed Stolen

Paul Lowry Jr., Route 2, Ashville, yesterday reported his car had been stolen recently to Pickaway County Sheriff's department.

Lowry said he had left the car parked near a vacant house along Route 316. It had stalled there last week.

When he returned to get the vehicle yesterday, it was gone.

16 Choirs Mean Music, Logistics Problem, Too

BOSTON (AP) — Decide to bring 16 choral groups to Boston from all over the world and you have a lot of good music but a logistics problem big enough to worry any general from Hannibal to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"But you get a lot of help, too," says Philip J. Webster, manager of Boston's Handel and Haydn Society which is sponsoring an international choral festival in progress at Symphony Hall this month to mark the society's 150th anniversary.

"We are amazed at the public response," Webster says. "The total price tag of the festival will be about $250,000, and the society is responsible for about $150,000. But we already have $50,000 raised in contributions, and we expect to make up the rest in such things as ticket and program sales."

Some of the choruses come in formidable sizes. The Huddersfield Choral Society of England, for example, is a small army of 180 singers plus baggage. Just to get them to Boston and back home would cost $40,000.

And where do you put them when they arrive? The Boston Council for International Visitors has found places for many in private homes, but the hotel tab for just three of the larger groups will be $5,330.

Then there's food. The Boston society plans to supply 5,760 meals during rehearsals and that will cost $14,875.75. A banquet during the last week of the festival will cost $9,660.

"It's all moving quite smoothly so far," Webster says. "We seem to have broken the mould as far as the public response is concerned. We have people coming from as far away as California."

Will the festival become a yearly project?

"No, no, no," Webster says. "We never plan a festival like this again. Oh well, maybe on the society's 200th anniversary. Not before."

Castro's . . .

exit point for refugees is on everyone's lips.

The consensus — and many indications seem to bear this out — is that if there is an accord reached between Cuba and the United States, more people will want to leave than can be accommodated in an orderly manner unless the doors are left open for a long time.

In his speech Sept. 28 in which he offered to open the doors, Castro said his reasons were:

—To put an end to "imperialist propaganda" that his government was holding back those who wanted to leave.

—So that the world would know the "American imperialists" and not the Cuban government shut down the exit avenues.

—To allow families divided between Cuba and the United States to be reunited.

But experienced observers here say Castro's move will:

—Give the world a picture of him as a humanitarian since he made the offer.

—Get rid of a dissatisfied element here that does little but put an added strain on the state's economy.

—Divert attention from what is considered a weak story about the disappearance of his close friend and fellow revolutionary Ernesto Guevara.

—Attempt to break the blockade imposed by the Organization of American States, by challenging the United States to allow Americans to visit in Cuba and Cubans to visit in the United States.

Government officials refuse to say how many persons want to leave the country.

astronomer at the University of California at Berkeley, disputes a prediction by Russian astronomers who say the comet will hit the sun.

Observers in the mid-Pacific and Japan will see it at its brightest, he said, when the sun's heat and intense radiation may break up the comet as it passes about 300,000 miles from the center of the sun.

Aveni said the comet comes into view in the East about an hour before sunrise, at a point about 10 degrees south of the sun's position on the horizon.

"The time at which the comet will be visible at other points in the country," he said, "should only vary up to an hour."

He predicted that by "Oct. 21, the comet will be the brightest object in the heavens, with the exception of the sun and moon."

In New York City, where the comet has been watched from Hayden Planetarium for several days, astronomer K.L. Franklin said it appears as a silvery line low in the eastern sky about an hour before dawn.

Franklin said that "it's not very bright... but it's likely to get quite a bit brighter" and that it should edge out of the pre-dawn sky in about three days. But it will not be visible to the naked eye in daylight, unless it becomes "very bright," he told reporters. "A comet is quite unpredictable," Franklin cautioned.

Steels Pace Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels shouldered their way into market leadership early this afternoon as the speculative high flyers which have paced recent sessions broke into irregularity.

Trading was active in a highly scrambled market which witnessed slight declines in popular averages.

The steels made a rare show of strength as they responded unanimously to news of U. S. Steel's price boost for tin-plated steel.

U. S. Steel Common, getting a rare piece of attention from the trading public, rose 1/2 to 49 on a block of 35,000 shares and then pushed its advance to well over a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 3 at 347.5 with industrials off 4, rails up 1 and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .77 at 940.35.

Drexel Poling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4, is participating in the organization's halftime shows and parades through the 1965 football season. Poling plays the flute.

Remaining appearances for the band will include Miami's home games with Marshall University on Saturday; Ohio University on Oct. 23; Toledo on Nov. 6; and away games at Bowling Green on Oct. 30 at Dayton on Nov. 13; and at Cincinnati on Nov. 20.

Sandusky Shuns Gas Firm's Bid for Boost

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The city commission has turned down a request by Columbia Gas of Ohio to increase consumer rates, which would add $100,000 to the utility's annual net income.

The commission said last year's net income was $56 million—$4 million more than in 1963.

Muny Judge Levels $500 Fine, 6-Month Jail Term

Oscar Ramsey, 34, Lancaster, involved in an accident that occurred on S. Pickaway St. Monday night, was fined $500 and costs, sentenced to six months in the County Jail and had his driving rights suspended for one year by Judge Sterling Lamb.

Cited to appear in Municipal Court today by Circleville Patrolman Richard Anderson, Ramsey entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Don McFarland, 50, of 219 Cedar Heights Road, entered a plea of guilty in Municipal Court to speeding 60 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. He was fined $50 and costs by the judge with $15 of the fine suspended.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were:

Arthur Rohrer Jr., 30, Washington, C. H.; $10 and costs for a red light violation.

John Davie, 20, Columbus; $10 and costs for driving a motor vehicle not equipped with a legal muffler.

Dave Yearry, 25, Dayton; $10 and costs for failure to heed a traffic control device.

William D. Fenech, 34, Dearborn, Mich.; $50 and costs for passing a school bus stopped to discharge children.

Francis Neff, 37, Williamsport; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

John Nipper, Jr., 30, Melvindale, Mich.; $25 bond forfeiture for speeding 50 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone.

Walter Hiatt, 24, Lancaster; $19 bond forfeiture for a red light violation.

U.S. Jetliners Showing Profit

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. airline took off into the jet age 10 years ago and soon flew into rough weather with heavy costs and too many empty seats. But now most carrier are flying high with record profits.

On Oct. 13, 1955, Pan American World Airways ordered the first U.S. commercial jets, touching off a scramble by airlines to provide jet service.

Today, about 35 per cent of the 1,884 aircraft flown by the nation's airlines are jets. The jet fleet will double by 1969.

Airline industry profits soared to $138.9 million in the first half of this year. The total for the same period last year was $79.3 million.

Jet routes include not only the 2,451 miles between New York and Los Angeles but also the 173 miles between Buffalo, N.Y., and Cleveland, Ohio.

Between 1955 and 1964, turbine-powered aircraft acquired by the airlines — almost all of which were pure jets — cost $4.5 billion. In the next five years, the total cost is expected to climb to at least $8.2 billion.

No only do jets cost plenty, but at first they added to the seating capacity of airlines at a faster rate than demand for seats increased.

Between 1958, when jets were first put into service, and 1962, available seat miles on airlines increased 30.3 per cent while revenue passenger miles went up only 13 per cent. By 1961, the airlines reported a loss of almost $38 million.

The turning point in the jet age arrive three years ago. Airline profits, reflecting higher passenger demand with the growth of the leisure dollar, rebounded to $52 million in 1962. In 1963, they grew to $77 million. Last year, profits jumped to $226 million.

16 Choirs Mean Music, Logistics Problem, Too

BOSTON (AP) — Decide to bring 16 choral groups to Boston from all over the world and you have a lot of good music but a logistics problem big enough to worry any general from Hannibal to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"But you get a lot of help, too," says Philip J. Webster, manager of Boston's Handel and Haydn Society which is sponsoring an international choral festival in progress at Symphony Hall this month to mark the society's 150th anniversary.

"We are amazed at the public response," Webster says. "The total price tag of the festival will be about $250,000, and the society is responsible for about $150,000. But we already have $50,000 raised in contributions, and we expect to make up the rest in such things as ticket and program sales."

Some of the choruses come in formidable sizes. The Huddersfield Choral Society of England, for example, is a small army of 180 singers plus baggage. Just to get them to Boston and back home will cost $40,000.

And where do you put them when they arrive? The Boston Council for International Visitors has found places for many in private homes, but the hotel tab for just three of the larger groups will be $5,330.

Then there's food. The Boston society plans to supply 5,760 meals during rehearsals and that will cost $14,875.75. A banquet during the last week of the festival will cost $9,660.

"It's all moving quite smoothly so far," Webster says. "We seem to have broken the mould as far as the public response is concerned. We have people coming from as far away as California."

Will the festival become a yearly project?

"No, no, no," Webster says. "We never plan a festival like this again. Oh well, maybe on the society's 200th anniversary. Not before."

Castro's . . .

exit point for refugees is on everyone's lips.

The consensus — and many indications seem to bear this out — is that if there is an accord reached between Cuba and the United States, more people will want to leave than can be accommodated in an orderly manner unless the doors are left open for a long time.

In his speech Sept. 28 in which he offered to open the doors, Castro said his reasons were:

—To put an end to "imperialist propaganda" that his government was holding back those who wanted to leave.

—So that the world would know the "American imperialists" and not the Cuban government shut down the exit avenues.

—To allow families divided between Cuba and the United States to be reunited.

But experienced observers here say Castro's move will: —Give the world a picture of him as a humanitarian since he made the offer.

—Get rid of a dissatisfied element here that does little but put an added strain on the state's economy.

—Divert attention from what is considered a weak story about the disappearance of his close friend and fellow revolutionary Ernesto Guevara.

—Attempt to break the blockade imposed by the Organization of American States, by challenging the United States to allow Americans to visit in Cuba and Cubans to visit in the United States.

Government officials refuse to say how many persons want to leave the country.

Football Helps Outfox a Wife

By BOB HARING
(For Hal Boyle)
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The annual football clash has begun.
It may lack the color and spectacle of the annual homecoming game, but it has every bit as much emotion, drama and tension.
This football battle is fought not on a gridiron but in a living room littered with the miscellany of life and, at its peak, the Sunday newspapers.
The struggle is over not a rectangular chunk of sod but a rectangular slice of glass.
And, like any football game, the national struggle between husbands planted firmly before television sets and wives seeking to dislodge them for household chores is a contest of strategy, strength and determination.
The coin toss comes in mid-August, when "preseason" professional games start. A wise husband starts his training early.

"Why don't you go shopping next Saturday?" you ask.
"What's on your mind?" the wife rejoins.
"Oh, nothing special. But it occurs to me there's a football game I might watch if you wanted to buy new dining room furniture."
"Football?" she asks, while figuring out how to get $700 worth of new furniture in a house already too small for what's there. "Why, the World Series isn't even over yet."
It is no use trying to explain that no, indeed, the World Series isn't over. In fact, it won't even start until football season is half over and by then basketball season will have started before the series is over, too.
Sports seasons are hard enough for a fan to follow, let alone a wife.
A mind geared to Saturday afternoon shopping trips, Sunday drives to the country and weekends of putting up storm windows, painting kitchens and mowing lawns is incapable of shifting to the distinctions of NCAA, AFL and NFL.

But wives, of course, don't even understand why there need to be three football games to watch each weekend—when the pro league and television schedule makers are thoughtful enough to make games follow one another instead of running at the same hours.
An experienced husband can put this lack of understanding to good use.
Say, for instance, you're contentedly watching the Cardinals and Browns when the wife intervenes during a commercial to demand: "When are you going to clean up the garage?"
"As soon as the game is over," you reply.
If you get away with that, you may be able to flip quickly to the Bills and Patriots and make it appear it's all the same game.
With good luck and a fast offense, you'll never get to that garage.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Economics is inspiring the emotional boost needed to send stock price averages to new highs.
Economics took over the role Monday after traders had had their small fling at a different kind of emotion last week. First they sent prices down slightly when President Johnson's pending operation was announced. Then they sent prices back up a bit after the hospital news was reassuring.
All three of the popular stock averages indexes hit record highs Monday. And the jump in trading volume attests to the role that emotion may be playing this week. The market is notorious for its emotional swings.
Monday's spurt of trading put the price averages back where they were last May—and just a bit higher. They had suffered a steep decline in late May and through June and worried out a long and tedious recovery since then.
Emotion played a role in the

May-June break, too. Traders jumped to the conclusion—or boardroom gossip—that a recession was a distinct possibility, that international affairs were getting worse, that a steel strike could upset everything.
Today the recession seems a far-off threat indeed, with most officials saying that all of 1966 now looks pretty safe. International affairs have improved in some particulars, with the stability of the British pound being the most recent turn for the better. The steel strike didn't happen. And the steel labor settlement didn't bring as much of a letdown in basic industries as first feared.
With uncertainties over President Johnson's health now pretty much cleared away, with the economy proving too strong in general to be slowed down by its few apparent weaknesses, stock traders were ready to push prices into new high ground. Now many are looking around for still fresher fields to conquer.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks Monday hit a new high of 348.2, with both its industrial and rail components setting record highs.
The Dow Jones industrial average Monday closed at 942.65, topping the previous record set by its 30 stocks last May 14 at 939.62. Dow Jones rails also were in new high ground.
Standard & Poor's composite index of 500 stocks set a record at 91.37.
Economics' role was obvious. The nation's well-being, with uncertainties over the President's health and stamina cleared away, has rarely been stronger. Almost all the statistics that record this well-being were themselves at record highs. The total output of goods and services pushes steadily higher. So does personal income and spending, and consumer confidence is shown in the strong will to go into debt to finance payments on things people want.

Is it safe to take pills to get rid of excess water that accumulates in the body?
The body maintains a fine balance between the amount of fluid that is taken in and the amount of fluid that is eliminated.
The balance is maintained by the process of perspiration, through the intestinal tract and through the kidneys.
In some heart and circulatory disorders, kidney diseases and hormone irregularities fluid may be retained and accumulated in the tissues of the body. This is called edema.
Diuretics, commonly called "water pills," are used to increase the elimination of fluid from the body.
These pills must be used only when prescribed for definite medical reasons.
The notion that diuretic water pills and the elimination of fluids is the answer to the problem of overweight is entirely false. There may be a temporary loss of weight, but this readily returns when the fluid once more accumulates.
Diuretics taken without the doctor's advice can, by their nature, be a hazard to the delicate mechanism of the kidneys. These pills are never a successful shot-out to the problem of dieting.

Single Standard Wanted

The Republicans are making the rueful discovery that Goldwaterism, minus the "trigger happy" scare, was a "centrist" manifestation, well within the tradition of their party. This, at least, is what one must deduce from the cries of Senator Thurston Morton that John Birch Society infiltrators who are disdaining of Barry Goldwater's Free Society as being milk-and-water stuff are secretly trying to get control of the Republican district organizations in key spots throughout the country.
Whether the Birchers are a real menace to the Republicans or not (Senator George Murphy of California laughs them off as being sixty per cent Democratic in their party affiliations), the cry is out for John Birch blood. Even William Buckley's National Review, a conservative publication which the Left likes to dismiss as an organ of the "Far Right," is planning to devote a whole issue to the proposition that the Birchers are responsible for the opinions of their leader, Robert Welch, who thinks conspiracy explains everything about Communist successes and human stupidity nothing.

The anti-Birch hue and cry pinpoints Republican troubles, particularly as they affect California. But former Vice President Richard Nixon, who hates double-standard thinking, quite rightly calls attention to the fact that "the radicals of the Left pose a far greater threat to the Democratic Party in California than do the radicals of the Right to the Republican Party."
Nixon appeared before the Republican State Central Committee Convention in California. He noticed that Ronald Reagan, the conservative Republicans' choice to run against Democrat Pat Brown for governor in 1966, was having his troubles over the Birch issue. Resenting Senator Tom Kuchel's insinuation that he is dominated by a dangerous "radical right fringe," Reagan carefully dissociated himself from Robert Welch's conspiratorial view of world history. But Nixon, who thinks the "far right problem" among Republicans is magnified out of all proportion by the artful jabbing of "liberal" columnists and commentators who couldn't care less about the fate of the Republican Party, carried the fight directly into the camp of the enemy. "The Right Wing radicals," he said, "are a fringe of

will not accept its support in 1966. As its titular leader, he should call on the Democratic Party of California to purge itself of the Left-wing extremists who control the California Democratic Council and the California Young Democrats. Otherwise the Democratic candidates in 1966 must assume responsibility for statements and actions of Left-wing radicals that . . . brought a great university to its knees through disgraceful and illegal riots . . . give aid and comfort to the enemies of the United States by advocating the halting of troop trains and tearing up of draft cards . . . (and) reject the rule of law and preach and practice rule by the mob."
Nixon, in short, is asking that if "reputations" are in order, the California Republicans and Democrats should be expected to live up to the same standards. If a Bob Welch is to be asked symbolically to walk the plank, then why not a Simon Casady, and if the Birchers are to be thrown out of polite society, then why not the California Democratic Council?

Football Helps Outfox a Wife

By BOB HARING
(For Hal Boyle)
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The annual football clash has begun.
It may lack the color and spectacle of the annual homecoming game, but it has every bit as much emotion, drama and tension.
This football battle is fought not on a gridiron but in a living room littered with the miscellany of life and, at its peak, the Sunday newspapers.
The struggle is over not a rectangular chunk of sod but a rectangular slice of glass.
And, like any football game, the national struggle between husbands planted firmly before television sets and wives seeking to dislodge them for household chores is a contest of strategy, strength and determination.
The coin toss comes in mid-August, when "preseason" professional games start. A wise husband starts his training early.

"Why don't you go shopping next Saturday?" you ask.
"What's on your mind?" the wife rejoins.
"Oh, nothing special. But it occurs to me there's a football game I might watch if you wanted to buy new dining room furniture."
"Football?" she asks, while figuring out how to get $700 worth of new furniture in a house already too small for what's there. "Why, the World Series isn't even over yet."
It is no use trying to explain that no, indeed, the World Series isn't over. In fact, it won't even start until football season is half over and by then basketball season will have started—before the series is over, too.
Sports seasons are hard enough for a fan to follow, let alone a wife.
A mind geared to Saturday afternoon shopping trips, Sunday drives to the country and weekends of putting up storm windows, painting kitchens and mowing lawns is incapable of shifting to the distinctions of NCAA, AFL and NFL.

But wives, of course, don't even understand why there need to be three football games to watch each weekend—when the pro league and television schedule makers are thoughtful enough to make games follow one another instead of running at the same hours.
An experienced husband can put this lack of understanding to good use.
Say, for instance, you're contentedly watching the Cardinals and Browns when the wife intervenes during a commercial to demand: "When are you going to clean up the garage?"
"As soon as the game is over," you reply.
If you get away with that, you may be able to flip quickly to the Bills and Patriots and make it appear it's all the same game.
With good luck and a fast offense, you'll never get to that garage.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Economies is inspiring the emotional boost needed to send stock price averages to new highs.
Economics took over the role Monday after traders had their small fling at a different kind of emotion last week. First they sent prices down slightly when President Johnson's pending operation was announced. Then they sent prices back up a bit after the hospital news was reassuring.
All three of the popular stock averages indexes hit record highs Monday. And the jump in trading volume attests to the role that emotion may be playing this week. The market is notorious for its emotional swings.
Monday's spurt of trading put the price averages back where they were last May—and just a bit higher. They had suffered a steep decline in late May and through June and worried out a long and tedious recovery since then.
Emotion played a role in the

May-June break, too. Traders jumped to the conclusion—or boardroom gossip—that a recession was a distinct possibility, that international affairs were getting worse, that a steel strike could upset everything.
Today the recession seems a far-off threat indeed, with most officials saying that all of 1965 now looks pretty safe. International affairs have improved in some particulars, with the stability of the British pound being the most recent turn for the better. The steel strike didn't happen. And the steel labor settlement didn't bring as much of a letdown in basic industries as first feared.
With uncertainties over President Johnson's health now pretty much cleared away, with the economy proving too strong in general to be slowed down by its few apparent weaknesses, stock traders were ready to push prices into new high ground. Now many are looking around for still fresher fields to conquer.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks Monday hit a new high of 348.2, with both its industrial and rail components setting record highs.
The Dow Jones industrial average Monday closed at 942.65, topping the previous record set by its 30 stocks last May 14 at 939.62. Dow Jones rails also were in new high ground.
Standard & Poor's composite index of 500 stocks set a record at 91.37.
Economics' role was obvious. The nation's well-being, with uncertainties over the President's health and stamina cleared away, has rarely been stronger. Almost all the statistics that record this well-being were themselves at record highs. The total output of goods and services pushes steadily higher. So does personal income and spending, and consumer confidence is shown in the strong will to go into debt to finance payments on things people want.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.
Is it safe to take pills to get rid of excess water that accumulates in the body?
The body maintains a fine balance between the amount of fluid that is taken in and the amount of fluid that is eliminated.
The balance is maintained by the process of perspiration, through the intestinal tract and through the kidneys.
In some heart and circulatory disorders, kidney diseases and hormone irregularities fluid may be retained and accumulated in the tissues of the body. This is called edema.
Diuretics, commonly called "water pills," are used to increase the elimination of fluid from the body.
These pills must be used only when prescribed for definite medical reasons.
The notion that diuretic water pills and the elimination of fluids is the answer to the problem of overweight is entirely false. There may be a temporary loss of weight, but this readily returns when the fluid once more accumulates.
Diuretics taken without the doctor's advice can, by their nature, be a hazard to the delicate mechanism of the kidneys. These pills are never a successful short-cut to the problem of dieting.
How can a small object be removed from a child's ear without damaging the ear?
Foreign bodies of all sorts have either found their own way or have been forced into the ear by both children and adults.

Single Standard Wanted

The Republicans are making the rueful discovery that Goldwaterism, minus the "trigger happy" scare, was a "centrist" manifestation, well within the tradition of their party. This, at least, is what one must deduce from the cries of Senator Thurston Morton that John Birch Society infiltrators who are disdained of Barry Goldwater's Free Society as being milk-and-water stuff are secretly trying to get control of the Republican district organizations in key spots throughout the country.
Whether the Birchers are a real menace to the Republicans or not (Senator George Murphy of California laughs them off as being sixty per cent Democratic in their party affiliations), the cry is out for John Birch blood. Even William Buckley's National Review, a conservative publication which the Left likes to dismiss as an organ of the "Far Right," is planning to devote a whole issue to the proposition that the Birchers are responsible for the opinions of their leader, Robert Welch, who thinks conspiracy explains everything about Communist successes and human stupidity nothing.
The anti-Birch hue and cry pinpoints Republican troubles, particularly as they affect California. But former Vice President Richard Nixon, who hates double-standard thinking, quite rightly calls attention to the fact that "the radicals of the Left pose a far greater threat to the Democratic Party in California than do the radicals of the Right to the Republican Party."
Nixon appeared before the Republican State Central Committee Convention in California. He noticed that Ronald Reagan, the conservative Republicans' choice to run against Democrat Pat Brown for governor in 1966, was having his troubles over the Birch issue. Resenting Senator Tom Kuchel's insinuation that he is dominated by a dangerous "radical right fringe," Reagan carefully disassociated himself from Robert Welch's conspiratorial view of world history. But Nixon, who thinks the "far right problem" among Republicans is magnified out of all proportion by the artful jabbing of "liberal" columnists and commentators who couldn't care less about the fate of the Republican Party, carried the fight directly into the camp of the enemy. "The Right Wing radicals," he said, "are a fringe of the Republican Party. The Left Wing radicals are part of the very fabric of the Democratic Party in California."

Nixon was referring to the controlling element in that large and influential body, the California Democratic Council. Simon Casady, the president of the CDC, has been issuing statements calling for Johnson to get American soldiers out of South Vietnam and he has commended boys for their "courage" in burning their draft cards. Some of the more conservative Democrats have called upon the Central Committee of their party to repudiate the Casady views, and Governor Brown, no fool, has said Casady ought to quit as CDC head. But, as Nixon has diagnosed it, the CDC elected Casady because he is right in the main stream of Leftist CDC thinking. To take the Casady albatross from around his neck, Governor Brown would have to repudiate the CDC as a whole.
"It is not enough," said Nixon, "for Governor Brown to dismiss this threat with a slap on the wrist for Mr. Casady. He should announce now that unless the CDC changes its leadership he will not accept its support in 1966. As its titular leader, he should call on the Democratic Party of California to purge itself of the Left-wing extremists who control the California Democratic Council and the California Young Democrats. Otherwise the Democratic candidates in 1966 must assume responsibility for statements and actions of Left-wing radicals that . . . brought a great university to its knees through disgraceful and illegal riots . . . give aid and comfort to the enemies of the United States by advocating the halting of troop trains and tearing up of draft cards . . . (and) reject the rule of law and preach and practice rule by the mob."

Nixon, in short, is asking that if "repudiations" are in order, the California Republicans and Democrats should be expected to live up to the same standards. If a Bob Welch is to be asked symbolically to walk the plank, then why not a Simon Casady, and if the Birchers are to be thrown out of polite society, then why not the California Democratic Council?

NEIGHBORS SPLIT—Two neighbors in Culver City, Calif., couldn't agree on whether this huge palm tree astraddle their property line should stay or be removed. The disagreement ended in a split decision when the man who wanted the tree to go removed his half at a cost of $185 for tree surgery. The surgeon predicted the standing half probably would not survive another year.

3 Teen-Agers Face Charges

Fayette Youths Tied to Bogus Bills

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Charges were filed Tuesday against three teen-agers arrested with more than $1,000 in counterfeit $20 bills.

They told authorities they had found the money Sunday in a cornfield four miles north of Greenfield.

Namgs on federal complaints of possession and passing of counterfeit money were Robert Lee Curmatt, 19, and Mrs. Mary Ann Smith, 17. Sent to juvenile court on a similar state complaint was Kenneth Lee Mitchell 15. All are from Washington Court House.

Curmatt also was bound over to a January grand jury on arraignment in Chillicothe Municipal Court Tuesday on a state charge of larceny by trick involving use of phony bills.

The Secret Service, which investigates counterfeiting, apparently decided not to prosecute the 15-year-old on a federal charge.

A Greenfield car dealer, Ben Parker, tipped authorities about the counterfeit bills. He became suspicious when the teen-agers gave him $100 as part payment on a 1958 car.

After a Greenfield bank confirmed the bills were bogus, Deputy Sheriff Carl Reisinger and Secret Service Agent Robert A. Mampel of Columbus arrested the teen-agers at the car lot where they had returned to pay another $50 and pick up the car title.

Officers said $1,080 in bogus $20 bills were found, most of it in the girl's purse.

Another $260 had been given to the car lot, a service station and other businesses in Highland and Fayette counties.

The teen-agers said they did not know the money was counterfeit and they had found it wrapped in a man's handkerchief in a cornfield Sunday.

NCR Plans New Plant In Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Officials in this community of 15,000 were buoyant today over news that the National Cash Register Co. plans to set up operations here.

The company announced at its headquarters in Dayton Tuesday that it has acquired a recently closed Cambridge factory and will begin manufacturing computer components early next year.

NCR Chairman Robert S. Oelman said the production schedule calls for a gradual buildup to several hundred employees.

The NCR facility is expected to provide an economic shot-in-the-arm for Cambridge, which suffered a heavy blow last April when the Radio Corporation of America began closing down its plant here.

RCA, which sold its plant to National Cash Register, employed 3,600 persons during peak production periods. The work

Q. For the past year or so I have had a ringing or buzzing in my ears which seems to become worse when I smoke too much. Can smoking cause such head noises?

A. The cause of head noises (tinnitus) is often difficult to determine. However, it is generally known that some people are sensitive to nicotine and that such sensitivity can involve the ear. Anyone who experiences ear symptoms after smoking may be courting deafness. Our advice—quit smoking.

Q. If both parents are left handed will all of their children use the left hand? What would the situation be when only one parent is left handed.

A. The causes of right and left handedness are not clearly understood. It may be said, however, that if both parents are left handed, about 45 per cent of children will be left handed. If only one parent is left handed, about 10 per cent of children will favor the left hand.

to contribute to the Child Welfare Scholarship Fund, (newly organized to finance training beyond high school).

Donald Metzler, principal of Corwin Street School and State Issue I chairman, presented a film, PEP — Planned Education Program as it will appear on the Nov. 2 ballot. A discussion followed.

Charles Wellman, representing the Health and Safety Committee of the Chamber of Commerce took a few minutes to ask for support of local organizations for the floridation of city water. With the needed support the issue can be taken to city council for action.

Refreshments were served by the committee.

CIGARETTES AND TINNITUS

Q. For the past year or so I have had a ringing or buzzing in my ears which seems to become worse when I smoke too much. Can smoking cause such head noises?

A. The cause of head noises (tinnitus) is often difficult to determine. However, it is generally known that some people are sensitive to nicotine and that such sensitivity can involve the ear. Anyone who experiences ear symptoms after smoking may be courting deafness. Our advice—quit smoking.

Q. If both parents are left handed will all of their children use the left hand? What would the situation be when only one parent is left handed.

A. The causes of right and left handedness are not clearly understood. It may be said, however, that if both parents are left handed, about 45 per cent of children will be left handed. If only one parent is left handed, about 10 per cent of children will favor the left hand.

Legion Auxiliary Hosts District Fall Conference

The Auxiliary Unit of Hall-Adkins Post 134, Circleville, was host for the Fall Conference, American Legion Auxiliary Department of Ohio, 7th District.

Mrs. Harold Hoffman, president of Unit 134, called the session to order. She and Commander Emil Stonerock of Hall-Adkins Post 134 gave the welcome. The response was presented by Mrs. Willard Young, Seman Unit 633. Coffee was served by the past presidents of Unit 134.

Mrs. G. B. Frazer, 7th District president, introduced the following guests: Mrs. B. T. Hedges, Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Mrs. Willard Young and Mrs. Dale Hedrick, past 7th District presidents. Mrs. Hedrick is also department community service chairman.

Guests attending the morning

"HELLO, DOLLY" — Leslie Kimble, 17, Los Angeles, a dancer with the "Hello, Dolly" troupe in South Viet Nam, and boyfriend Pfc. David Snow, 21, Coventry, R.I., hug on meeting in Nha Trang. Mary Martin, the star, and U.S. authorities arranged the get-together.

Souffles turned into ungreased baking dishes "climb" best.

session were Mrs. Leo McElroy, past department president who is now National Executive Committeewoman, and Mrs. Karl Van Horn, president of the 11th District.

Reports were given by the district chairman as follows: Rehabilitation — Mrs. Ray Jennings of the Paul H. Hughes Unit No. 25; Child welfare — Mrs. Harold Garman of the Raymond R. Stout Unit No. 129; Junior Activities — Mrs. Stacy Day of the James Dickey Unit No. 23; Americanism — Mrs. Robert Christmas of the Downey-Pogue-Scott Unit No. 590; Community Service — Mrs. Walter Pickel, Jr. of the Hall-Adkins Unit No. 134.

Mrs. Frazer reported on the National Convention held at Portland, Ore. Lunch was served by members of Unit 134 under the direction of Mrs. Mary Stephens and her committee.

During the afternoon session which began at 1 p. m. Mrs. Frazer introduced the 7th District Commander, Harold Hill of the American Legion from Circleville, 1st Vice Commander, Robert Ridgeway of Ironton, and Past Department Commander Ross S. Williams of Oak Hill. Vice Commander James Ingles Post No. 23 of Portsmouth, gave the "Gifts For the Yanks" report. He reminded the units that they may participate in the program also.

Addresses of the department officers were as follows: Mrs. Homer Smith, president, Civil Defense and president's projects. Mrs. James Warner, 2nd Vice President — Public Relations and National Security. Mrs. Edward Ullum, treasurer — Girl's State and Child Welfare. Mrs. Lee E. Moore, Secretary — Legislative and Foreign Relations. Mrs. Franklin Beaverson, 1st Vice President — Poppy and Membership.

Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock and Mrs. Charles Moss, registration committee, gave a final report.

Refreshments were served by the past presidents and junior members of Hall-Adkins Unit, 134.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Two Wrongs . . .

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I went on a vacation and on our last night we found a well-kept motel. We rented and room and my husband told the motel clerk (who was also the owner) that we were very tired and hoped to get a good night's rest. We were assured we would.

At 5 a. m. we were practically

Mrs. Young Entertains WSCS Circle

Fifteen members of Circle No. 1, WSCS of First Methodist Church, met recently in the home of Mrs. Ernest Young, 1042 Georgia Road.

Mrs. A. W. Graf was in charge of the program entitled, "Foreign Missionary". A discussion followed.

Mrs. Helene Jacobs announced that a Pot Pie dinner will be held Nov. 17 at the church.

Mrs. Sue Walker and Mrs. Eva Lee Graf were co-hostesses. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. Boyd Stout, 812 Arbor Road.

Delicious accompaniment for a soup and salad lunch: baking powder biscuits made with shredded cheddar cheese.

thrown from our beds by terrific noises. We looked out the window and not ten feet away were bulldozers and heavy road equipment at work. My husband was angry, went to the motel owner and demanded half his money back as we had had only half night's rest. The motel owner refused to listen to him and walked away. My husband became so furious that he stuffed a bath towel down the toilet just to get even. I became angry with him and still am. Was my husband within his rights to do what he did or am I TOO CRITICAL?

DEAR CRITICAL: If the motel owner knew that the road outside your window would be under construction at 5 a. m., he is a crook. If he didn't know, but refused to listen to your husband, he is only a fool. But speaking of immaturity-in-action, your husband takes the teething ring!

DEAR ABBY: Some of my women friends work in a large office. To celebrate their "anniversaries" with the company each year, the boss takes them out to lunch, but he takes them out only one at a time. He says this is so he can get to know them better. The boss is a married man. Don't you think his wife has a legitimate complaint?

DEAR PUZZLED: If she thinks she has, let her take it up with her husband. I doubt if a once-a-year luncheon justifies a complaint. On the other hand, once a year might be enough.

DEAR ABBY: I spent six weeks at summer camp and liked it a lot. One afternoon I was down by the lake watching the kids swim, but I didn't go in myself because I was going to be in a skit that night and I didn't want to get my hair wet. I had all my clothes on, and my wrist watch, too, when this kid picked me up and threw me in the lake!

I took my watch to the repair shop and was told it would cost me $9 to get it fixed. Should I send the bill to the kid who threw me in?

THROWN IN

DEAR THROWN: If you think it will do some good, by all means, do. But a clown who'd throw a girl in the lake, clothes and all, isn't likely to pay it. Try his father.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO OLD TO BE USEFUL": Is that so? Michelangelo painted the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel (on his back, on a scaffold) when he was nearly 90. Paderewski played magnificent piano at 79. John Wesley preached daily at 88. Alfred Lord Tennyson published "Crossing the Bar" at 80. Booth Tarkington wrote 16 novels after 60. (He was almost totally blind.) Benjamin Franklin went to France to serve his country at 72, and wrote his autobiography when he was over 80. And don't forget Grandma Moses!

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

You know how well your car's engine runs after a tuneup? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Everything blends with everything else. Styling. Performance. Ride. Handling. All tuned to work together in harmony. That's what the tuned car is. A Buick. Only Buick is the tuned car. (And every Buick is the tuned car.) What the tuned car is is a masterful blending of all the things that make a great car greater. The Riviera for 1966 is the tuned car. It features six-passenger seating, disappearing headlights, a silently efficient new ventilating system and the kind of roadworthiness you'd expect in a car that costs twice as much. (You can get a Riviera for your desk as well as your garage. Send $1 in check or money order to Riviera, P.O. Box 68, Troy, Mich., for an accurate 1/25 scale model '66 Riviera.) But Riviera's not the only tuned car. LeSabre is, too. And Wildcat, Electra 225, Special, Skylark, Sportwagon. See them all at your Buick dealer's. The tuned car may not mean much to you now. But then you haven't had a chance to drive one yet.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his ✓ Double-Checked used cars, too.

Mrs. G. B. Frazer, 7th District president, introduced the following guests: Mrs. B. T. Hedges, Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Mrs. Willard Young and Mrs. Dale Hedrick, past 7th District presidents. Mrs. Hedrick is also department community service chairman.

Guests attending the morning

"HELLO, DOLLY" — Leslie Kimble, 17, Los Angeles, a dancer with the "Hello, Dolly" troupe in South Viet Nam, and boyfriend Pfc. David Snow, 21, Coventry, R.I., hug on meeting in Nha Trang. Mary Martin, the star, and U.S. authorities arranged the get-together.

Souffles turned into ungreased baking dishes "climb" best.

session were Mrs. Leo McElroy, past department president who is now National Executive Committeewoman, and Mrs. Karl Van Horn, president of the 11th District.

Reports were given by the district chairman as follows: Rehabilitation — Mrs. Ray Jennings of the Paul H. Hughey Unit No. 25; Child welfare — Mrs. Harold Garman of the Raymond R. Stout Unit No. 129; Junior Activities — Mrs. Stacy Day of the James Dickey Unit No. 23; Americanism — Mrs. Robert Christmas of the Downey-Pogue-Scott Unit No. 590; Community Service — Mrs. Walter Pickel, Jr. of the Hall-Adkins Unit No. 134.

Mrs. Frazer reported on the National Convention held at Portland, Ore. Lunch was served by members of Unit 134 under the direction of Mrs. Mary Stephens and her committee.

During the afternoon session which began at 1 p. m. Mrs. Frazer introduced the 7th District Commander, Harold Hill of the American Legion from Circleville, 1st Vice Commander, Robert Ridgeway of Ironton, and Past Department Commander Ross S. Williams of Oak Hill. Vice Commander James Ingles Post No. 23 of Portsmouth, gave the "Gifts For the Yanks" report. He reminded the units that they may participate in the program also.

Addresses of the department officers were as follows: Mrs. Homer Smith, president, Civil Defense and president's projects. Mrs. James Warner, 2nd Vice President — Public Relations and National Security. Mrs. Edward Ullum, treasurer — Girl's State and Child Welfare. Mrs. Lee E. Moore, Secretary — Legislative and Foreign Relations. Mrs. Franklin Beaverson, 1st Vice President — Poppy and Membership. Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock and Mrs. Charles Moss, registration committee, gave a final report. Refreshments were served by the past presidents and junior members of Hall-Adkins Unit, 134.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Two Wrongs . . .

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I went on a vacation and on our last night we found a well-kept motel. We rented and room and my husband told the motel clerk (who was also the owner) that we were very tired and hoped to get a good night's rest. We were assured we would.

At 5 a.m. we were practically thrown from our beds by terrific noises. We looked out the window and not ten feet away were bulldozers and heavy road equipment at work. My husband was angry, went to the motel owner and demanded half his money back as we had had only half night's rest. The motel owner refused to listen to him and walked away. My husband became so furious that he stuffed a bath towel down the toilet just to get even. I became angry with him and still am. Was my husband within his rights to do what he did or am I TOO CRITICAL?

DEAR CRITICAL: If the motel owner knew that the road outside your window would be under construction at 5 a.m., he is a crook. If he didn't know, but refused to listen to your husband, he is only a fool. But speaking of immaturity-in-action, your husband takes the teething ring!

DEAR ABBY: Some of my women friends work in a large office. To celebrate their "anniversaries" with the company each year, the boss takes them out to lunch, but he takes them out only one at a time. He says this is so he can get to know them better. The boss is a married man. Don't you think his wife has a legitimate complaint?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: If she thinks she has, let her take it up with her husband. I doubt if a once-a-year luncheon justifies a complaint. On the other hand, once a year might be enough.

DEAR ABBY: I spent six weeks at summer camp and liked it a lot. One afternoon I was down by the lake watching the kids swim, but I didn't go in myself because I was going to be in a skit that night and I didn't want to get my hair wet. I had all my clothes on, and my wrist watch, too, when this kid picked me up and threw me in the lake!

I took my watch to the repair shop and was told it would cost me $9 to get it fixed. Should I send the bill to the kid who threw me in?

THROWN IN
DEAR THROWN: If you think it will do some good, by all means, do. But a clown who'd throw a girl in the lake, clothes and all, isn't likely to pay it. Try his father.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO OLD TO BE USEFUL": Is that so? Michelangelo painted the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel (on his back, on a scaffold) when he was nearly 90. Paderewski played magnificent piano at 79. John Wesley preached daily at 88. Alfred Lord Tennyson published "Crossing the Bar" at 80. Booth Tarkington wrote 16 novels after 60. (He was almost totally blind.) Benjamin Franklin went to France to serve his country at 72, and wrote his autobiography when he was over 80. And don't forget Grandma Moses!

Mrs. Young Entertains WSCS Circle

Fifteen members of Circle No. 1, WSCS of First Methodist Church, met recently in the home of Mrs. Ernest Young, 1042 Georgia Road.

Mrs. A. W. Graf was in charge of the program entitled, "Foreign Missionary". A discussion followed.

Mrs. Helene Jacobs announced that a Pot Pie dinner will be held Nov. 17 at the church.

Mrs. Sue Walker and Mrs. Eva Lee Graf were co-hostesses. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. Boyd Stout, 812 Arbor Road.

Delicious accompaniment for a soup and salad lunch: baking powder biscuits made with shredded cheddar cheese.

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

You know how well your car's engine runs after a tuneup? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Everything blends with everything else. Styling. Performance. Ride. Handling. All tuned to work together in harmony. That's what the tuned car is. A Buick. Only Buick is the tuned car. (And every Buick is the tuned car.) What the tuned car is a masterful blending of all the things that make a great car greater. The Riviera for 1966 is the tuned car. It features six-passenger seating, disappearing headlights, a silently efficient new ventilating system and the kind of roadworthiness you'd expect in a car that costs twice as much. (You can get a Riviera for your desk as well as your garage. Send $1 in check or money order to Riviera, P.O. Box 68, Troy, Mich., for an accurate 1/25 scale model '66 Riviera.) But Riviera's not the only tuned car. LeSabre is, too. And Wildcat. Electra 225. Special. Skylark. Sportwagon. See them all at your Buick dealer's. The tuned car may not mean much to you now. But then you haven't had a chance to drive one yet.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Impeccably timed to arrive at the peak of the auto industry's new-model season, and with just the right combination of majestic deachment and raised eyebrows, CBS news Tuesday night provided a delightful hour's drama outlining America's love affair with the car.

"This thing we have about automobiles," has one way narrator Harry Reasoner described it.

This year, Reasoner went on, we will be producing about nine million new cars — but only about four million new babies. And we are throwing away about five million cars a year, and the problem there is what to do with the unsightly hulks that are rusting all over the countryside.

Today there are drive-in movies, restaurants, banks, post offices, liquor stores and now in Southern California, the beginning of a chain of drive-in churches. If stacked bumper to bumper, our cars would reach to the moon and a quarter of the way back.

The program took a philosophical look at television car commercials, with Reasoner explaining that by showing the cars in glamorous situations and dressing them up with pretty girls, the manufacturers are really playing back to the would-be male buyer his dreams.

"If you're a boy," he went on, "the day you get your driving license is the biggest thing that's happened to you since the day you were born."

Then he noted coolly that that average newly licensed driver would buy 15 cars and have 13 accidents in his lifetime — and has a one in 40 chance of being killed in a car.

Mostly, though, the program's mood, tempo and background music was one of light and affectionate reflection on the American love of the automobile. It kept carefully away from the serious problems connected with our 72-million car fleet — in fact, there was just one mention of safety belts in the whole hour.

Ross Deputy Saves Injured Man's Life

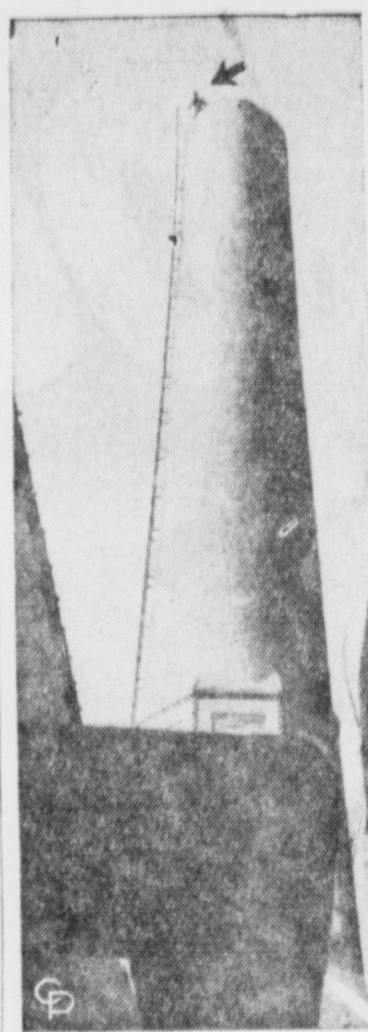

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Ross County Deputy Sheriff Glen Sheridan was credited with saving the life of a Chillicothe man who was injured in a farm accident Tuesday.

Joseph Schneider was stacking hay on an elevator when a spring mechanism released, pinning him to the wall of the barn. After Schneider was released, Sheridan and another deputy applied first aid at the scene and then took the man to a hospital.

En route, Sheridan noticed Schneider stop breathing twice but was able to restore breathing through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Schneider was reported in good condition.

WORKS HIS WAY DOWN —

Obstructions made it impossible to bring in a heavy wrecking crane to knock down this 150-foot brick smokestack at a cold storage plant in Wichita, Kan., so Jim McTeer (arrow) was hired to take it apart brick by brick. He removes about 500 an hour and estimates it will take him five or six weeks to complete the job. The bricks are sent down inside the stack.

Congress Stone Cold on Voting by Gadget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost a century ago Thomas A. Edison tried to sell Congress on an electronic voting system. The door was closed firmly in his face.

"It's the last thing we want here," a committee chairman told the great inventor. "Filibustering and delay in counting the votes are often the only means we have for defeating bad legislation."

Since then legislatures in 36 states have adopted some form of push-button voting and the United Nations has just put an electronic system in operation.

But both the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives cling to the old system of calling the roll.

And in the House, with its 435 members, it's a long time from Abbot to Zablocki. In the Senate, with 100 members, calling the roll can be as fast as 10 minutes, but it usually takes longer.

How long the House can take was shown Sept. 13, the day the House broke the record for roll calls. In a 12-hour, 31-minute session congressmen spent nine hours answering 22 roll calls, each lasting an average 24.5 minutes.

Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., estimates the House consumed as many as 70 working days just answering roll calls in the 1963 session that ran into Christmas Eve.

Pressure is growing for some sort of change. A special Senate-House committee considering ways of changing congressional procedures is hearing arguments on electronic voting.

But particularly in the Senate there is resistance even to consider such machines. The Senate hasn't even been over to the use of microphones and loudspeakers to carry the voices of its orators from end to end of the chamber and to the public galleries above.

The Senate years ago had electric outlets installed for plug-in mikes and loudspeakers, and that's the last anyone has heard about electronic talk devices.

As for voting machines, the senators like it the way it is.

They seem to get a kick out of a ritual performance of stalling for time until brother and sister senators can reach the floor for a vote.

In most state legislatures the lawmakers' offices are their desks on the floor, and they usually are on the spot when a vote is taken.

When the bells ring in Congress for a vote or a quorum call, members most often have to journey from one of three office buildings, a block or more away, and there has to be enough time for them to reach the floor.

Rep. D. R. (Billy) Mathews, D-Fla., argues against electric voting this way:

"I hope the American people will realize that when they visit the House and see only 15 to 20 of us present, there are 200 or 300 of us down at the Veterans Administration, and down at the Department of the Interior, down at the Labor Department, with our constituents, trying to help them, and when you have a roll call, you have 20 minutes to get back to the House."

Rep. William L. Springer, R-Ill., has seen electronic vote recording in his home state and believes it would work in Congress, too. But, he observed:

"I wouldn't expect the idea to be popular with members, if there are any, who wait to see how the vote is going before shouting yea or nay."

One solution has been advanced by a freshman member — Rep. Weston E. Vivian, D-Mich., a specialist in electronics engineering.

He proposed that machines be used, but that the vote not be reported finally and tabulated until after a specific length of time, comparable to the time now required by a roll call.

In the meantime, the House could go ahead with other business.

But Congress is not quick about changing its rules or traditions. It was only in recent years that its spittoons began disappearing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Impeccably timed to arrive at the peak of the auto industry's new-model season, and with just the right combination of majestic deachment and raised eyebrows, CBS news Tuesday night provided a delightful hour's drama outlining America's love affair with the car.

"This thing we have about automobiles," has one way narrator Harry Reasoner described it.

This year, Reasoner went on, we will be producing about nine million new cars — but only about four million new babies. And we are throwing away about five million cars a year, and the problem there is what to do with the unsightly hulks that are rusting all over the countryside.

Today there are drive-in movies, restaurants, banks, post offices, liquor stores and now in Southern California, the beginning of a chain of drive-in churches. If stacked bumper to bumper, our cars would reach to the moon and a quarter of the way back.

The program took a philosophical look at television car commercials, with Reasoner explaining that by showing the cars in glamorous situations and dressing them up with pretty girls, the manufacturers are really playing back to the would-be male buyer his dreams.

"If you're a boy," he went on, "the day you get your driving license is the biggest thing that's happened to you since the day you were born."

Then he noted coolly that that average newly licensed driver would buy 15 cars and have 13 accidents in his lifetime — and has a one in 40 chance of being killed in a car.

Mostly, though, the program's mood, tempo and background music was one of light and affectionate reflection on the American love of the automobile. It kept carefully away from the serious problems connected with our 72-million car fleet — in fact, there was just one mention of safety belts in the whole hour.

Ross Deputy Saves Injured Man's Life

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Ross County Deputy Sheriff Glen Sheridan was credited with saving the life of a Chillicothe man who was injured in a farm accident Tuesday.

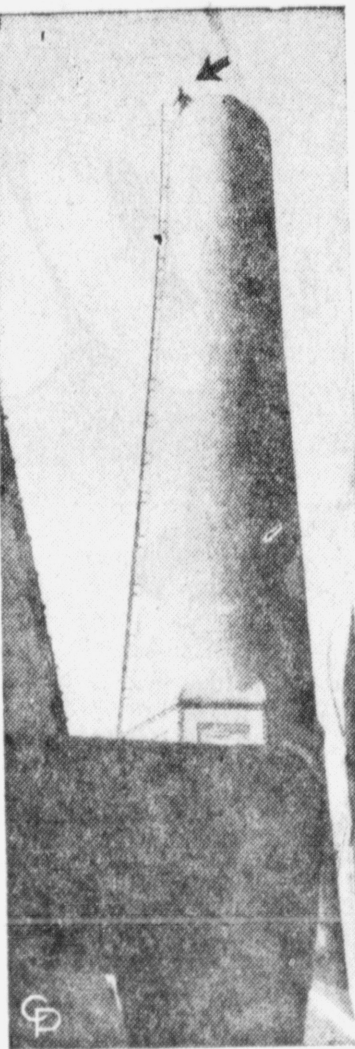

Joseph Schneider was stacking hay on an elevator when a spring mechanism released, pinning him to the wall of the barn.

After Schneider was released, Sheridan and another deputy applied first aid at the scene and then took the man to a hospital.

En route, Sheridan noticed Schneider stop breathing twice but was able to restore breathing through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Schneider was reported in good condition.

WORKS HIS WAY DOWN — Obstructions made it impossible to bring in a heavy wrecking crane to knock down this 150-foot brick smokestack at a cold storage plant in Wichita, Kan., so Jim McTeer (arrow) was hired to take it apart brick by brick. He removes about 500 an hour and estimates it will take him five or six weeks to complete the job. The bricks are sent down inside the stack.

Congress Stone Cold on Voting by Gadget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost a century ago Thomas A. Edison tried to sell Congress on an electronic voting system. The door was closed firmly in his face.

"It's the last thing we want here," a committee chairman told the great inventor. "Filibustering and delay in counting the votes are often the only means we have for defeating bad legislation."

Since then legislatures in 36 states have adopted some form of push-button voting and the United Nations has just put an electronic system in operation.

But both the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives cling to the old system of calling the roll.

And in the House, with its 435 members, it's a long time from Abbot to Zablocki. In the Senate, with 100 members, calling the roll can be as fast as 10 minutes, but it usually takes longer.

How long the House can take was shown Sept. 13, the day the House broke the record for roll calls. In a 12-hour, 31-minute session congressmen spent nine hours answering 22 roll calls, each lasting an average 24.5 minutes.

Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., estimates the House consumed as many as 70 working days just answering roll calls in the 1963 session that ran into Christmas Eve.

Pressure is growing for some sort of change. A special Senate-House committee considering ways of changing congressional procedures is hearing arguments on electronic voting.

But particularly in the Senate there is resistance even to consider such machines. The Senate hasn't even been won over to the use of microphones and loudspeakers to carry the voices of its orators from end to end of the chamber and to the public galleries above.

The Senate years ago had electric outlets installed for plug-in mikes and loudspeakers, and that's the last anyone has heard about electronic talk devices.

As for voting machines, the senators like it the way it is.

They seem to get a kick out of a ritual performance of stalling for time until brother and sister senators can reach the floor for a vote.

In most state legislatures the lawmakers' offices are their desks on the floor, and they thus usually are on the spot when a vote is taken.

When the bells ring in Congress for a vote or a quorum call, members most often have to journey from one of three office buildings, a block or more away, and there has to be enough time for them to reach the floor.

Rep. D. R. (Billy) Mathews, D-Fla., argues against electric voting this way:

"I hope the American people will realize that when they visit the House and see only 15 to 20 of us present, there are 200 or 300 of us down at the Veterans Administration, and down at the Department of the Interior, down at the Labor Department, with our constituents, trying to help them, and when you have a roll call, you have 20 minutes to get back to the House."

Rep. William L. Springer, R-Ill., has seen electronic vote recording in his home state and believes it would work in Congress, too. But, he observed:

"I wouldn't expect the idea to be popular with members, if there are any, who wait to see how the vote is going before shouting yea or nay."

One solution has been advanced by a freshman member — Rep. Weston E. Vivian, D-Mich., a specialist in electronics engineering.

He proposed that machines be used, but that the vote not be reported finally and tabulated until after a specific length of time, comparable to the time now required by a roll call.

In the meantime, the House could go ahead with other business.

But Congress is not quick about changing its rules or traditions. It was only in recent years that its spittoons began disappearing.

FBI Asks More Police Officers

Training Base Is Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking its lead from President Johnson, the FBI is urging Congress to take emergency action on a base to train more officers in the war against crime.

Rather than wait for next year's budget, the FBI is asking for a supplemental appropriation of $14,763,000 to expand training facilities at its National Academy at Quantico, Va.

Some members of a House Appropriations subcommittee who expressed surprise and noted that such a deficiency request was supposed "to be something of an emergency nature" were reminded of a paragraph in Johnson's special crime message last week.

"To meet their large and growing burdens, state and local enforcement agencies must have additional training and technical assistance from the federal government."

John P. Mohr, assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, explained in testimony from a closed meeting made public today, "The urgency for the academy at this time is to gear it with the President's drive to do something about crime, to reduce crime, if possible."

As it stands now, Mohr said, the academy trains only 200 state and local police officers, in addition to the FBI's own agents, at two six-week sessions each year.

"We feel with this new academy located at Quantico next to our firearms ranges, we can provide training for up to 1,200 police officers in our regular National Academy with another 1,000 per year getting specialized types of training," Mohr said.

Huffer Slated At Rotary Meet

Roy H. Huffer Jr., Pickaway County State Representative, will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Rotary Club.

Huffer's topic will be "Round-up of the State Legislature." The program will be introduced by William Stout.

The luncheon session will be held at the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

Youth Is Questioned About Dead Companion

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police have questioned a 19-year-old youth about a stolen car found in his garage with the body of a friend in the front seat.

The youth, Fred Trembley, told police he found the car and the body of William Fred Settles, 18, in his garage Tuesday.

Seven empty tubes of glue were found on the floor of the garage near the car. Trembley admitted to police that he and Settles were glue sniffers, but denied knowing how Settles got into his garage in a stolen car.

This Is Newspaper Week

Reporters Are Singularly Lucky: Have Front Seat to World Events

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer

Bertrand Russell once wrote, "The world is full of things that are tragic or comic, heroic or bizarre, or surprising..."

Substitute "Page One" for "the world" and this becomes a pretty good inventory of the daily preoccupations of a newspaperman. He is forever on safari, tracking the unusual. Even a routine woman's page story of an engagement announcement may be, to those who know the facts, hilariously funny or tragically bizarre.

In the same passage, Russell wrote, "to ignore our opportunities for knowledge, imperfect as they are, is like going to the theater and not listening to the play."

Here is where a newspaperman is singularly lucky. As an observer and recorder of "la

SE Methodists Grow

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Methodist Church membership in nine Southeastern states and Cuba has increased by 12,705 over last year to a new total of 2,847,971, Methodist officials say.

It seems to me that newspapermen of my generation have been particularly fortunate to have seen, close up, the events that changed the world out of all countenance in a period of about 35 years. Who knows, of course? Maybe we ain't seen nothin', compared to what lies ahead for reporters to write about.

But to illustrate—My newspapering started in the sports department. I liked this very much and no doubt would have remained there, but for a prickly quirk of fate.

One of my earliest jobs was on an anaemic newspaper. (Loving friends often suggest that I

Red Dye Used in Study Of River Water Flow

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Federal hydrologists have injected a red dye into the Susquehanna River to measure the water flow.

Clayton D. Kauffman Jr., an engineer with the U.S. Department of Interior Geological Survey, said a harmless solution was injected into the water at 11 points.

may have been one of the viruses in its marrow.) The staff dwindled steadily. Finally, matters reached a point where the managing editor had to deploy whatever troops were at hand when a story broke. Presently, while continuing to write sports, I also found myself on rewrite and general assignments, covering murder trials and earthquakes, Hollywood marriages and divorces. On a slow day, there were profiles and obituaries. One summer, as a vacation relief, I did a stretch on the woman's page.

Once, I went out to cover what looked like a routine story of a beautiful socialite who had become disenchanted with her husband. For reasons too complicated to detail here, she suddenly felt it necessary to get far away. I jumped into the car with her, and had the story all to myself for 72 hours and thousands of miles of California highways.

So it went. I still hoped, at some point, to get back to the sports department, fulltime.

Then, in the Spring of 1933, a story turned my attention in another direction. I was assigned to interview a politician, newly returned from Washington. Out of that conversation, and others later, the "New Deal" became more meaningful. Washington names, Hugh Johnson, Harold Ickes, Frances Perkins, took on a different light. Washington news as such, largely a Stygian mystery to me before, suddenly came to life.

I won't pretend that, as a callow reporter, I understood all the implications of the "Hundred Days," nor the meanings and factors in the Great Depression, as it deepened. But in their local manifestations, I covered bits and pieces of the big national story — and found it immensely rewarding.

At about the same time, Japan's war lords took over the government and moved against China. Having had some experience in the Far East (student and reporter on a Shanghai newspaper) I thought I did have some knowledge of what this story meant.

I wanted to go back to Japan or China to work on it.

The Associated Press sent me to Japan in the summer of 1937.

Since then, World War I... nuclear weapons... the Marshall Plan and the Cold War... the Korean War and Viet Nam. And at home... the nomination and election of Dwight D. Eisenhower... the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg... John F. Kennedy, in his undershirt, chatting with us on the Caroline... racial strife and social change... the Cuban crisis.

To return to Bertrand Russell who wrote—

"...and those who fail to be interested in the spectacle that it (the world) offers are foregoing one of the privileges that life has to offer."

A newspaperman is specially privileged.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police have questioned a 19-year-old youth about a stolen car found in his garage with the body of a friend in the front seat.

The youth, Fred Trembley, told police he found the car and the body of William Fred Settles, 18, in his garage Tuesday.

Seven empty tubes of glue were found on the floor of the garage near the car. Trembley admitted to police that he and Settles were glue sniffers, but denied knowing how Settles got into his garage in a stolen car.

Reporters Are Singularly Lucky: Have Front Seat to World Events

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer

Bertrand Russell once wrote, "The world is full of things that are tragic or comic, heroic or bizarre, or surprising..."

Substitute "Page One" for "the world" and this becomes a pretty good inventory of the daily preoccupations of a newspaperman. He is forever on safari, tracking the unusual. Even a routine woman's page story of an engagement announcement may be, to those who know the facts, hilariously funny or tragically bizarre.

In the same passage, Russell

wrote, "to ignore our opportunities for knowledge, imperfect as they are, is like going to the theater and not listening to the play."

It seems to me that newspapermen of my generation have been particularly fortunate to have seen, close up, the events that changed the world out of all countenance in a period of about 35 years. Who knows, of course? Maybe we ain't seen nothin', compared to what lies ahead for reporters to write about.

But to illustrate—My newspapering started in the sports department. I liked this very much and no doubt would have remained there, but for a prickly quirk of fate.

One of my earliest jobs was on an anaemic newspaper. (Loving friends often suggest that I

Red Dye Used in Study Of River Water Flow

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Federal hydrologists have injected a red dye into the Susquehanna River to measure the water flow.

Clayton D. Kauffman Jr., an engineer with the U.S. Department of Interior Geological Survey, said a harmless solution was injected into the water at 11 points.

may have been one of the viruses in its marrow.) The staff dwindled steadily. Finally, matters reached a point where the managing editor had to deploy whatever troops were at hand when a story broke. Presently, while continuing to write sports, I also found myself on rewrite and general assignments, covering murder trials and earthquakes, Hollywood marriages and divorces. On a slow day, there were profiles and obituaries. One summer, as a vacation relief, I did a stretch on the woman's page.

Once, I went out to cover what looked like a routine story of a beautiful socialite who had become disenchanted with her husband. For reasons too complicated to detail here, she suddenly felt it necessary to get far away. I jumped into the car with her, and had the story all to myself for 72 hours and thousands of miles of California highways.

So it went. I still hoped, at some point, to get back to the sports department, fulltime.

Then, in the Spring of 1933, a story turned my attention in another direction. I was assigned to interview a politician, newly returned from Washington. Out of that conversation, and others later, the "New Deal" became more meaningful. Washington names, Hugh Johnson, Harold Ickes, Frances Perkins, took on a different light. Washington news as such, largely a Stygian mystery to me before, suddenly came to life.

I won't pretend that, as a callow reporter, I understood all the implications of the "Hundred Days," nor the meanings and factors in the Great Depression, as it deepened. But in their local manifestations, I covered bits and pieces of the big national story — and found it immensely rewarding.

At about the same time, Japan's war lords took over the government and moved against China. Having had some experience in the Far East (student and reporter on a Shanghai newspaper) I thought I did have some knowledge of what this story meant.

I wanted to go back to Japan or China to work on it.

The Associated Press sent me to Japan in the summer of 1937.

Since then, World War I... nuclear weapons... the Marshall Plan and the Cold War... the Korean War and Viet Nam. And at home... the nomination and election of Dwight D. Eisenhower... the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg... John F. Kennedy, in his undershirt, chatting with us on the Caroline... racial strife and social change... the Cuban crisis.

To return to Bertrand Russell who wrote—

"...and those who fail to be interested in the spectacle that it (the world) offers are foregoing one of the privileges that life has to offer."

A newspaperman is specially privileged.

Jukebox Due for New Role in College

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The jukebox, popular for years in bars and taverns, soon will be going to college.

Prof. Thomas Magoon of the University Counseling Service says he hopes to acquire a battery of reconditioned jukeboxes to place in various buildings at the University of Maryland next year as electronic counseling devices.

Calling them "economical random access machines," Magoon said the rock 'n' roll dispensers will provide such selections as interviews with department chairmen.

The interviews would give basic information on the university's major fields of study, what jobs are available to graduates in each of the major areas and the characteristics of students in the various departments.

Other records would provide information on various occupations, complete with interviews with persons employed in each field.

The machines will differ from their forerunners in several respects, Magoon said. There will be no charge for using them, and listeners will use earphones for better concentration.

By NEIL GILBRIDE (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor chiefs are holding a wake over the union shop bill put to rest in the Senate.

While some profess to detect a faint heart beat that might be fanned to life next year, one top feeling of most: "It's dead — period."

The bill, blocked by a Senate filibuster and shelved Tuesday for the session by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, would have repealed the right of the states to outlaw union shop contracts. These are labor agreements in which union membership is compulsory. Nineteen states now have such laws.

Organized labor had waited 18 years until it thought the climate was right in Congress.

This was supposed to have been the year.

In their frustration at losing the No. 1 legislative goal to which they had staked so much prestige and political power, labor spokesmen are variously blaming President Johnson, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who led the filibuster, and each other.

One sign of defeat was the rapid disintegration of the united front that warring and unfriendly elements of the labor movement had built behind the drive to repeal section 14 B of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act.

The AFL-CIO, riding a crest of political power in the Johnson administration, lays the blame squarely at the door of Dirksen.

But a top spokesman for one major independent union also blames both Johnson and the AFL-CIO.

"He (Johnson) broke the filibuster on civil rights. He could have broken the filibuster on this one," he said, adding that the AFL-CIO failed to stir enough grass roots pressure on Congress or the White House.

"Why should the President stick his neck out when the labor movement wouldn't," this spokesman added.

"The old arm-twisting certainly wasn't there," said a spokesman for another big independent union, in claiming the support Johnson gave the bill wasn't full measure.

At any rate, the 1964 Democratic campaign pledge to repeal 14B was effectively blocked by Dirksen and his band of Republican and Southern Democratic "buccaneers" — Dirksen's own translation of the Spanish word "filibustero."

About the bravest front labor can muster at present is "wait'll next year," but union leaders have long privately conceded their chances would be far dimmer in a congressional election year.

"An awful lot of people will be afraid of it" as a campaign issue, one union spokesman said.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Glimpses of U.S. life this week: The Pacific Northwest wants to keep its wealth of water. A language problem in Marietta, Ga. An 84-year-old coed in Phoenix, Ariz. Proposals for a sweepstakes winner in Massachusetts. A prayer hour for commuters in a Baltimore suburb.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) —

Bond Issue Tied to New Tech Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes disclosed Tuesday that Ohio is readying plans for a $2.3 million vocational-technical center at Nelsonville.

Designated the Tri - County Joint Vocational School and Post High School Center, Rhodes said it is designed to accommodate 1,375 students.

It will provide facilities for study of agriculture, business education, distributive education, trade and industrial education and adult education at the vocational level for approximately 700 students.

Total cost of the Nelsonville facility is set at $2,340,979. Already allocated under the Vocational Education Act of 1963 is $704,012.

Voters in Athens, Hocking and Perry counties will be asked to approve a bond issue totaling $737,987 as the local share of the facility.

Following action on the bond issue Nov. 2, Rhodes said Ohio would ask the Appalachia Regional Commission for $898,979 to complete the facility.

The Pacific Northwest has a wealth of water—water that is coveted by arid states of the Southwest.

The Columbia River alone pours 6.8 billion gallons per hour into the Pacific Ocean.

To residents of the Southwest, where water is becoming more and more precious, water flowing into the sea is cruelly wasteful.

This water, they assert, belongs not to the Northwest but to the nation. They want some of it piped to the Southwest.

"It makes as much sense to ask for some of your sunshine," reply Northwesterners. They argue that it makes better logic to grow the crops here and ship them south instead of spending millions to divert the water southward.

So the question ultimately becomes: Should the water go to the people, or the people go to the water?

The position of Oregon and Washington officials is that enough water must remain in the Northwest to take care of all local needs for all time. This requires careful study—a study just begun that will take at least five years.

In the meantime, asks the Northwest, what about the millions of gallons flowing into the Pacific each year from streams in Northern California?

assigned to King Faisal's C130 Hercules aircraft can't speak English; their instructors can't speak Arabian.

The Hercules airplanes recently were acquired by Saudi Arabia and 43 maintenance men from the Saudi Arabian air force were sent to Georgia to study the C130 at Lockheed's plant in Marietta.

It is difficult to translate such things as generator, flap, landing gear, throttle and other technical words into Arabian. So, the Arabs are attending classes in English. After three months they will get their maintenance courses.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mary Alice Patterson wants a college degree. She's only a sophomore but she's 84 and mighty determined.

Some Arizona State University coeds study Arizona history. Mrs. Patterson helped make it.

A pioneer resident of Arizona, she was official clerk-typist to the Arizona constitutional convention in 1910. Later, she served in the Arizona House of Representatives.

Laws which she sponsored provided pensions and retirement for public school teachers and set the referendum for women's suffrage.

In 1898 she attended the University of Utah but never got a degree. She taught school for 28 years.

Now she is enrolled in the College of Education at Arizona State and hopes to earn a bachelor's degree.

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—Miss Pauline Mazzei, 44, who won $100,000 in the New Hampshire sweepstakes last month, says she has received three marriage proposals by mail since then.

One came from a woman who wrote she had a brother for Miss Mazzei and thought the three of them could be happy with the money.

"My sister tore it up in disgust," Miss Mazzei said.

Miss Mazzei earns $88 a week in a nearby cork company factory and lives with her mother, Gina Mazzei, a sister and a brother in a modest house.

With an estimated $53,000 that will be left of her winnings after taxes, she plans to pay off the house mortgage, buy a car and take her mother on a visit to Italy, which Mrs. Mazzei hasn't seen since she emigrated 5 years ago.

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP)—A minister in this Baltimore suburb says urban residents are "increasingly caught in a rat race," so he is offering a daily prayer period for commuters.

The "prayer hour" is from 5 to 7 p.m. each day at the Grace Methodist church. No formal services are conducted. Drivers merely stop by for individual prayer.

The Rev. Andrew Leigh Gunn is pastor of the church.

Here's Panorama Of Week's News

EDITOR'S NOTE—Glances of U.S. life this week: The Pacific Northwest wants to keep its wealth of water. A language problem in Marietta, Ga. An 84-year-old coed in Phoenix, Ariz. Proposals for a sweepstakes winner in Massachusetts. A prayer hour for commuters in a Baltimore suburb.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) —

Bond Issue Tied to New Tech Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes disclosed Tuesday that Ohio is readying plans for a $2.3 million vocational-technical center at Nelsonville.

Designated the Tri - County Joint Vocational School and Post High School Center, Rhodes said it is designed to accommodate 1,375 students.

It will provide facilities for study of agriculture, business education, distributive education, trade and industrial education and adult education at the vocational level for approximately 700 students.

Total cost of the Nelsonville facility is set at $2,340,979. Already allocated under the Vocational Education Act of 1963 is $704,012.

Voters in Athens, Hocking and Perry counties will be asked to approve a bond issue totaling $737,987 as the local share of the facility.

Following action on the bond issue Nov. 2, Rhodes said Ohio would ask the Appalachia Regional Commission for $898,979 to complete the facility.

The Pacific Northwest has a wealth of water—water that is coveted by arid states of the Southwest.

The Columbia River alone pours 6.8 billion gallons per hour into the Pacific Ocean.

To residents of the Southwest, where water is becoming more and more precious, water flowing into the sea is cruelly wasteful.

This water, they assert, belongs not to the Northwest but to the nation. They want some of it piped to the Southwest.

"It makes as much sense to ask for some of your sunshine," reply Northwesters. They argue that it makes better logic to grow the crops here and ship them south instead of spending millions to divert the water southward.

So the question ultimately becomes: Should the water go to the people, or the people go to the water?

The position of Oregon and Washington officials is that enough water must remain in the Northwest to take care of all local needs for all time. This requires careful study—a study just begun that will take at least five years.

In the meantime, asks the Northwest, what about the millions of gallons flowing into the Pacific each year from streams in Northern California?

assigned to King Faisal's C130 Hercules aircraft can't speak English; their instructors can't speak Arabian.

The Hercules airplanes recently were acquired by Saudi Arabia and 43 maintenance men from the Saudi Arabian air force were sent to Georgia to study the C130 at Lockheed's plant in Marietta.

It is difficult to translate such things as generator, flap, landing gear, throttle and other technical words into Arabian. So, the Arabs are attending classes in English. After three months they will get their maintenance courses.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mary Alice Patterson wants a college degree. She's only a sophomore but she's 84 and mighty determined.

Some Arizona State University coeds study Arizona history. Mrs. Patterson helped make it. A pioneer resident of Arizona, she was official clerk-typist to the Arizona constitutional convention in 1910. Later, she served in the Arizona House of Representatives.

Laws which she sponsored provided pensions and retirement for public school teachers and set the referendum for women's suffrage.

In 1898 she attended the University of Utah but never got a degree. She taught school for 28 years.

Now she is enrolled in the College of Education at Arizona State and hopes to earn a bachelor's degree.

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Miss Pauline Mazzei, 44, who won $100,000 in the New Hampshire sweepstakes last month, says she has received three marriage proposals by mail since then.

One came from a woman who wrote she had a brother for Miss Mazzei and thought the three of them could be happy with the money.

"My sister tore it up in disgust," Miss Mazzei said.

Miss Mazzei earns $88 a week in a nearby cork company factory and lives with her mother, Gina Mazzei, a sister and a brother in a modest house.

With an estimated $53,000 that will be left of her winnings after taxes, she plans to pay off the house mortgage, buy a car and take her mother on a visit to Italy, which Mrs. Mazzei hasn't seen since she emigrated 5 years ago.

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — A minister in this Baltimore suburb says urban residents are "increasingly caught in a rat race," so he is offering a daily prayer period for commuters.

The "prayer hour" is from 5 to 7 p.m. each day at the Grace Methodist church. No formal services are conducted. Drivers merely stop by for individual prayer.

The Rev. Andrew Leigh Gunn is pastor of the church.

Cong Defector Gives Details Of Frustration

Editor's Note — Reporters in Viet Nam seldom get to interview a Viet Cong defector before he is handed on to higher authorities for intelligence debriefings. Hugh Mulligan, hunting for stories near the Cambodian border, talked for nearly an hour with a North Vietnamese officer.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
GIA NGHIA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Dang Van Trong, a Viet Cong second lieutenant, came out of the jungles on a steaming hot day with a few dried beans clutched in his hand.

For him the war was over. He had had it.
Lt. Trong had been walking for three months and four days. An infiltrator from North Viet Nam, he left a staging area above the 17th Parallel with a platoon of 28 men. Only 18 were left. Ten had died in the past week, four of starvation.

That in statistical form was Trong's story. How much he held back or how much he invented can only be ascertained by trained intelligence teams.

Trong said his orders were to get his men to one D, a vast jungle area 100 miles wide and 60 miles deep. Government troops have penetrated only its fringes. The Viet Cong is suspected to be staging a massive troop buildup there with fresh units infiltrated from the North. But Trong, a North Vietnamese regular, never got there.

Instead, he slipped away from his men in the dense jungles of Quang Duc Province, somehow made his way to Route 14, walked into the nearest Montagnard village, and gave himself up.

He was given some beer and rice, which immediately made him sick, and was treated kindly by the raggedly uniformed popular force guards who man

Any change will be an improvement.

All we do when we change the Volkswagen is to make it work even better. We don't play with the way it looks. So the 1966 VW still looks the same. And there you have the whole Volkswagen point of view: We keep looking for ways to improve it. And then we knock our brains out to make the new pieces fit old VWs, too. All the improvements make a fat book. And every one has made the car a touch better than it was before. This year, the backs of the front seats can be locked so they won't push forward. Engine power's increased for the 4th time. And the windshield has a 3rd defroster (so you'll see where you're going in such a hurry). This system not only makes the VW better all the time, but also makes parts easier to get, mechanics more skillful and owners always in style. And we can still keep the price at a nice, reasonable $1585.00* Keep the change.

the expression, Trong was treated as a "chieu hoi"—received with open arms, which is what the program means in Vietnamese. The government's chieu hoi is designed to encourage defectors.
When he surrendered Trong had on the traditional black pajamas of the Viet Cong fighter. In the compound at Gia Nghia, where he chatted amiably through an interpreter, he was dressed in garrison fatigues which he had carried in his rucksack. His captors had lauded them for him.
Trong had lost so much weight that the fatigue uniform hung loosely. His cheeks were deeply recessed, his eyes dull and hollow-looking and his arms thin and covered with leech bites. His sandals had been worn down at least a quarter of an inch.
Why had he decided to call it quits?
Trong was hungry and tired and disenchanted. He said he had been led to believe at least four-fifths of the people of South Viet Nam were friendly to the Communist cause. But he found himself walking for weeks without being allowed to talk with anyone, friendly or unfriendly.
Some observers of the war doubt there is such a thing as the so-called Ho Chi Minh Trail, the series of trails through Laos and Cambodia for infiltrating men and supplies into South Viet Nam.
Trong had never heard it called by that name, but he said he crossed the border into Laos three miles above the 17th Parallel, walked south through Laos and Cambodia, then crossed into South Viet Nam in Darlac Province.

There his real troubles began. His 28-man platoon was part of a force of more than 400 being infiltrated at that time, he said. He never saw any of the others, because each platoon moves separately through the jungles, and is passed from station to station.
The stations, Trong said, were always two days apart. Each station knew where the unit was heading next, and so directed them, but never knew where they came from. The lieutenant found such security procedures strange in a country where he had been led to believe the Communists were overwhelmingly popular.
Air Force and Navy bombers have been pounding the jungles with air strikes for months to prevent Mass Communist infiltrations.
Trong never saw or heard an air strike during his three months in the jungles, but he knew they must be awesome because people operating the jungle stations spoke of them in terrifying terms.
The jungles abound in fresh fruits and wild edible plants, but the lieutenants' platoon found themselves slowly starving to death. After a lifetime of eating rice, the jungle food made them sick. Malaria and dysentery killed six of his men.
Trong used to hoard his few handfuls of beans and dry rice to keep his men from trying to jump him and steal his fast dwindling supplies. The few beans he had when he walked out on Route 14 were all the food he had left. Like the others he dared not pluck a banana or a mango from a tree.

The platoon was under orders never to fight. Their assignment was to get to one D and avoid contact with the enemy before getting there. They never dared shoot a deer or kill a lizard or snake to eat, lest government forces find their campfire or discover a carcass.
The lieutenant had gone north to join the Communist cause after the armistice with the French in 1954, but now he was 32, wiser and weary of war.
He spoke in an abstract way, as if it no longer concerned him about the island of Hainan in the Gulf of Tonkin. He had been told that 200,000 Chinese troops were waiting there to join the war. No one had told him that the U.S. 7th Fleet was in the gulf waiting for that possibility.
He spoke of a Hanoi factory where machine guns and mortars were stamped with Chinese markings as they came off the assembly line, so that people in the South would get the idea that China was supporting the war in a big way.
Finally, he spoke of the jungles where his friends had died and his cause had vanished, and he said he never wanted to see those dense rain forests again.

The platoon was under orders never to fight. Their assignment was to get to one D and avoid contact with the enemy before getting there. They never dared shoot a deer or kill a lizard or snake to eat, lest government forces find their campfire or discover a carcass.
The lieutenant had gone north to join the Communist cause after the armistice with the French in 1954, but now he was 32, wiser and weary of war.
He spoke in an abstract way, as if it no longer concerned him about the island of Hainan in the Gulf of Tonkin. He had been told that 200,000 Chinese troops were waiting there to join the war. No one had told him that the U.S. 7th Fleet was in the gulf waiting for that possibility.
He spoke of a Hanoi factory where machine guns and mortars were stamped with Chinese markings as they came off the assembly line, so that people in the South would get the idea that China was supporting the war in a big way.
Finally, he spoke of the jungles where his friends had died and his cause had vanished, and he said he never wanted to see those dense rain forests again.

Standards For Schools
Are Debated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Proposed new minimum standards for Ohio junior and senior high schools have come under fire from some witnesses appearing at the State Board of Education's first public hearing on the changes.

Most opposition Tuesday was aimed at the requirement establishing a minimum of 24 square feet of floor space for each pupil in a classroom. This would mean a classroom of about 720 square feet, about normal for classrooms being built today.

But school officials said it would be too costly to change existing buildings to meet the requirement.

Another target of opposition was the controversial new minimum enrollment figures of 500 students for schools with grades 9-12 and 400 pupils for grades 10-12.

Other witnesses urged the board to adopt the minimums, and some wanted requirements strengthened.

Linton Honaker, Tuscarawas County superintendent and a member of the advisory committee on the standards, said "too often in Ohio we take the point of least resistance."

"We can take the easy way out and lower the standards for those who want their way or the standards be adopted as presented," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It almost staggers the imagination, but in a year's time nearly 10,000 trays have vanished without a trace from the Pentagon's cafeterias and snack bars.

What's more, some 2,000 salt and pepper shakers and nearly 1,200 sugar dispensers also have disappeared.

Throw in a horde of lost knives, forks and spoons and you run into a cost estimated in five figures.

These statistics came to light with an appeal from the Army Welfare Fund Recreation Office. It complained the losses are cutting down the money that otherwise would be coming to the fund from the proceeds of Pentagon concessions.

CINCINNATI (AP)—If things work out right, it won't be long before Cincinnati motorists can blame automation for the downtown traffic jams.

Tom Young, city traffic engineer, said his department is studying the possibility of using a computer to control the lights and keep cars moving smoothly during the rush hours.

Young said the city asked for $1.1 million under the urban renewal program for the project, and was granted about $860,000. He said a digital computer which would automatically regulate the lights on the basis of information from traffic counters would cost about half a million dollars.

The rest of the money would go for modernized signal equipment. A cheaper system also is being considered, Young said.

Maury Wills Takes Aim On Pair of Series Marks

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — Maury Wills is in town with a banjo on his knee and a couple of records on his mind.

Wills and his Los Angeles teammates reached the Twin Cities Tuesday night in the Dodgers' blue and white team plane, then headed for a St. Paul hotel before meeting the Minnesota Twins in the sixth game of the World Series today.

As Wills came down the ramp carrying the banjo he immediately was asked why he had brought it along. He said he wanted to keep in tune for a singing and dancing engagement at Lake Tahoe, Calif., as part of his off-season musical act.

"Wednesday night or Thursday night?" he was asked, with an eye toward finding out whether he thought the Dodge could wind up the Series in one game or two.

"October 28th," he replied. Wills, wearing a topcoat in the cool, 45-degree weather, then said he didn't think the cold would make any difference to the Dodgers.

"It won't make any difference for one game," he said.

One game?

"Oh, I don't mean it that way," he said. "It won't make any difference for one or two games. We get the same weather when we play the Giants in Candlestick Park."

What about baseball records?

"I didn't even know about them until the writers told me," said Wills, who has collected 10 hits in the series for a .455 batting average and needs two hits to tie the record for a six-game series and three to tie the seven-game mark.

"It's been on my mind though," he admitted. "It might give me an extra incentive for doing even better."

No other banjo hitter could hope for that.

OU To Honor 8 Athletes

New Hall of Fame
To Open Saturday

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Eight men are scheduled to be honored Saturday in the inaugural installation of Ohio University's newly created Athletic Hall of Fame.

The eight inductees will be received in a ceremony at Peden Stadium when Ohio U. meets Xavier on the gridiron.

Names to the Hall of Fame are Frank Baumholtz, Brandon T. Grover, William J. Trautwein, Claude C. Chrisman, Don Peden, Stanley Dougan, Clyde Gibson and the Late Russ Finsterwald. His award will be accepted by his widow, Mrs. Russ Finsterwald.

Baumholtz made his mark as an All-America basketball player and later went on to a major league baseball career.

Grover served the university 43 years as graduate manager of athletics, director of public relations and assistant to the president.

Trautwein was head basketball coach for 11 of the 35 years he was affiliated with the university.

Chrisman was a great guard on the Bobcat football teams of 1929-30-31.

Peden was one of the great all-time football and baseball coaches and athletic directors at the university's long history.

Dougan, who played baseball in the early 1900s, averaged over 10 strikeouts per game over three varsity years.

Gibson was one of the few 12 letter winners in the history of the school participating in football, baseball, basketball and track.

Finsterwald quarterbacked the OU teams of 1914 and 1915 and also served as a head football and basketball coach. He was the father of pro golfer Dow Finsterwald.

Extra Seats Due for Tilt at Wilmington

Officials at Wilmington High School have announced additional bleachers will be erected for Friday's Circleville-Wilmington football game.

Student tickets for the game will be on sale at Circleville High School from noon until 5 p. m. Friday. A capacity crowd is expected at the game.

The Wilmington School has designated the evening as its Homecoming observance.

Festivities begin there Thursday with a Pep Rally. Queen candidates will participate in the game ceremonies.

WILMINGTON is undefeated in South Central Ohio League play. The Tigers have suffered a loss at the hands of Miami Trace.

A loss for CHS would just about eliminate the local team from contention for the league crown.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Daytona Continental sports car race, run at 3,000 kilometers the last three years, will become a 24-hour event next February, Daytona International Speedway officials announced Tuesday.

Thus, the Continental will join the Le Mans, France, classic as the only 24-hour endurance events on the world racing calendar.

1968 Olympic Card Due To Be Set Up

NEW YORK (AP) — A schedule of events for the track and field portion of the 1968 Olympic Games is expected to be prepared at the annual meeting here Saturday of the Council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The council is made up of its president the Marquess of Exeter from Great Britain, and 11 track and field authorities from 11 nations. The world governing body of track and field will be meeting in the United States for the first time.

In addition to preparing a schedule of track and field events for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, the council also will pass on applications for world records in men's and women's track.

Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant says his 1965 team is the youngest and lightest he has coached in 21 years.

Continental would be 4 p. m. on Feb. 5, with the finish at 4 p. m. on Feb. 6.

fense, after getting off to a slow start, has shown vast improvement. In the first game against Carroll, Logan Elm was scoreless. The second tilt saw the Braves mount a drive late in the fourth quarter to tie Amanda-Clearcreek, 8-8.

Against Teays Valley, the breaks of the game went in favor of the Braves as they recovered a blocked punt in the end zone and then tallied the extra points to post an 8-6 win.

Against Unioto, although they lost 22-12, the Braves were in contention most of the game. Late in the fourth quarter, Logan Elm gambled and lost the ball. This led to Unioto's final score.

Falcon Coach Is 'Worried'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green meets Toledo Saturday in a key Mid-American conference contest that has Falcon coach Bob Gibson worried.

"We're in for a lot of trouble," Gibson said after he watched Toledo whip Ohio University last weekend, 21-7.

"They (Toledo) have a real fine club. I was impressed with both their offense and defense," Gibson said.

The Rockets haven't beaten a Bowling Green team in 10 years but Gibson isn't buying that bit of statistical information.

"Everyone in this league scares me. There's tremendous balance this year."

Gibson says "Most clubs are stacking their defense to meet the rush of Stew William, the all-conference back who is playing with a bad shoulder. He picked up 78 yards in 19 carries against Western Michigan last week as the Falcons triumphed, 21-17.

In the other games, Kent State (2-0) journeys to Western (0-2) Saturday and Coach Leo Strang hopes his Golden Flashes won't be looking ahead to their clash with Bowling Green Oct. 23.

Marshall risks its perfect mark against Miami at Oxford and winless Ohio University plays host to all-winning Xavier. The Bobcats are 0-4 and the Musketeers, who already have measured Kent and Miami, 4-0.

The Falcons, seeking a second straight conference title, will try to boost their 1-0 record while the Rockies, 1-1, hope to stay in contention.

Both Piketon and Unioto own wins over Westfall.

THE GAME between Franklin Heights and Teays Valley marks the first South Suburban League tilt for the Vikings.

The Vikings defeated Walnut Ridge in their opener, and then lost to Circleville and Logan Elm in the next two games. On Oct. 1 they defeated Westfall, 22-14, and last week suffered a 36-6 shellacking at the hands of Reynoldsburg's Raiders.

Franklin Heights is the defending South Suburban League champion. In their lone league tilt to date, the Falcons stopped Hamilton Twp., 20-0.

The Falcons were out-weighted 56 pounds per man on the line at Hamilton Twp. But they still came up with a big defensive performance.

FH Coach Bob LaBeau credited guards Dick Grambo and Dave Lewis, tackle Bill

Fishingier and middle line-backer Fred Shato with good performances.

The Falcon's championship unit of last year was an all-sec-ior team. Pleasant View, with a host of returning regulars and letter-men, is favored to win the SSL crown this year.

Maury Wills Takes Aim On Pair of Series Marks

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — Maury Wills is in town with a banjo on his knee and a couple of records on his mind. Wills and his Los Angeles teammates reached the Twin Cities Tuesday night in the Dodgers' blue and white team plane, then headed for a St. Paul hotel before meeting the Minnesota Twins in the sixth game of the World Series today. As Wills came down the ramp carrying the banjo he immediately was asked why he had brought it along. He said he wanted to keep in tune for a singing and dancing engagement at Lake Tahoe, Calif., as part of his off-season musical act. "Wednesday night or Thursday night?" he was asked, with an eye toward finding out whether he thought the Dodge could wind up the Series in one game or two.

"October 28th," He replied. Wills, wearing a topcoat in the cool, 45-degree weather, then said he didn't think the cold would make any difference to the Dodgers.

"It won't make any difference for one game," he said.

One game? "Oh, I don't mean it that way," he said. "It won't make any difference for one or two games. We get the same weather when we play the Giants in Candlestick Park."

What about baseball records? "I didn't even know about them until the writers told me," said Wills, who has collected 10 hits in the series for a .455 batting average and needs two hits to tie the record for a six-game series and three to tie the seven-game mark.

"It's been on my mind though," he admitted. "It might give me an extra incentive for doing even better."

No other banjo hitter could hope for that.

OU To Honor 8 Athletes

New Hall of Fame
To Open Saturday

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) —Eight men are scheduled to be honored Saturday in the inaugural installation of Ohio University's newly created Athletic Hall of Fame.

The eight inductees will be received in a ceremony at Peden Stadium when Ohio U. meets Xavier on the gridiron.

Names to the Hall of Fame are Frank Baumholtz, Brandon T. Grover, William J. Trautwein, Claude C. Chrisman, Don Peden, Stanley Dougan, Clyde Gibson and the Late Russ Finsterwald. His award will be accepted by his widow, Mrs. Russ Finsterwald.

Baumholtz made his mark as an All-America basketball player and later went on to a major league baseball career.

Grover served the university 43 years as graduate manager of athletics, director of public relations and assistant to the president.

Trautwein was head basketball coach for 11 of the 35 years he was affiliated with the university.

Chrisman was a great guard on the Bobcat football teams of 1929-30-31.

Peden was one of the great all-time football and baseball coaches and athletic directors at the university's long history.

Dougan, who played baseball in the early 1900s, averaged over 10 strikeouts per game over three varsity years.

Gibson was one of the few 12 letter winners in the history of the school participating in football, baseball, basketball and track.

Finsterwald quarterbacked the OU teams of 1914 and 1915 and also served as a head football and basketball coach. He was the father of pro golfer Dow Finsterwald.

County's Grid Teams in Second Half of Season

Pickaway County's three high schools move into the second half of their football season Friday.

Logan Elm and Westfall play home games. The Teays Valley Vikings are on the road.

The Braves host New Lexington St. Aloysius, Paint Valley will be at Westfall and the Vikings travel to Franklin Heights.

The Braves game is a non-league encounter. Undefeated St. Al could provide Jim Colville's Logan Elm team with its toughest contest of the year.

1968 Olympic Card Due To Be Set Up

NEW YORK (AP) — A schedule of events for the track and field portion of the 1968 Olympic Games is expected to be prepared at the annual meeting here Saturday of the Council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The council is made up of its president the Marquess of Exeter from Great Britain, and 11 track and field authorities from 11 nations. The world governing body of track and field will be meeting in the United States for the first time.

In addition to preparing a schedule of track and field events for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, the council also will pass on applications for world records in men's and women's track.

Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant says his 1965 team is the youngest and lightest he has coached in 21 years.

Continental would be 4 p.m. on Feb. 5, with the finish at 4 p.m. on Feb. 6.

fense, after getting off to a slow start, has shown vast improvement. In the first game against Carroll, Logan Elm was scoreless. The second tilt saw the Braves mount a drive late in the fourth quarter to tie Amanda-Clearcreek, 8-8.

Against Teays Valley, the breaks of the game went in favor of the Braves as they recovered a blocked punt in the end zone and then tallied the extra points to post an 8-6 win.

Against Unioto, although they lost 22-12, the Braves were in contention most of the game. Late in the fourth quarter, Logan Elm gambled and lost the ball. This led to Unioto's final score.

BG-Toledo Bout Awaited

Falcon Coach
Is 'Worried'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green meets Toledo Saturday in a key Mid-American conference contest that has Falcon coach Bob Gibson worried.

"We're in for a lot of trouble," Gibson said after he watched Toledo whip Ohio University last weekend, 21-7.

"They (Toledo) have a real fine club. I was impressed with both their offense and defense," Gibson said.

The Rockets haven't beaten a Bowling Green team in 10 years but Gibson isn't buying that bit of statistical information.

"Everyone in this league scares me. There's tremendous balance this year."

Gibson says "Most clubs are stacking their defense to meet the rush of Stew William, the all-conference back who is playing with a bad shoulder. He picked up 78 yards in 19 carries against Western Michigan last week as the Falcons triumphed, 21-17.

In the other games, Kent State (2-0) journeys to Western (0-2) Saturday and Coach Leo Strang hopes his Golden Flashes won't be looking ahead to their clash with Bowling Green Oct. 23.

Marshall risks its perfect mark against Miami at Oxford and winless Ohio University plays host to all-winning Xavier. The Bobcats are 0-4 and the Musketers, who already have measured Kent and Miami, 4-0.

The Falcons, seeking a second straight conference title, will try to boost their 1-0 record while the Rockies, 1-1, hope to stay in contention.

Westfall, after five games, is still seeking its first win of the season. Paint Valley's Bearcats, operating with a paper thin bench — at the start of the season Ray Bethel had only 33 candidates — have beaten Piketon and lost to Unioto.

AP Guesspert Says Spartans To Top Bucks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Isn't it a good thing that baseball will have finished its traveling rounders tournament when such football masterpieces as Texas vs. Arkansas, Stanford vs. Southern Cal and Ohio State vs. Michigan State occupy the playing fields?

Last week's array of similar attractions found 45 games finishing according to the script with 12 others failing to do so. That's an average of 789, bringing the seasonal totals to 152-56 for 731.

Here are this week's winners: Arkansas over Texas—Arkansas has won 16 in a row, and its streak is in jeopardy.

Nebraska over Kansas State—Among their many gridiron luxuries, the Huskers can boast of two outstanding quarterbacks, while Kansas State hardly has that many topflight football players.

Michigan State over Ohio State—Sticking with Michigan State's transplanted Hawaiian pair.

Georgia over Florida State—Georgia's defense is the stingiest in the Southeastern Conference.

Southern California over Stanford—Mike Garrett is the motor for the Trojan machine. Stanford is unbeaten, but its three victories all were narrow ones.

Purdue over Michigan—The Wolverines Jim Detwiler is hurt, while Purdue's Bob Griese is healthy and frisky.

Florida over North Carolina State—Little more than a workout for the Gators who play Auburn next.

Mississippi State over Memphis State—Ashby Cook means the difference.

Alabama over Tennessee—The Volunteers have a terrific defense, but it never has encountered an attack on a par with that of Alabama's.

Cornell over Harvard—Walt Grant and Bobby Leo give Harvard a rugged running attack, but Cornell has the forward wall to stop them.

Louisiana State over Kentucky. They are playing this one at night so that the bruises won't show.

Missouri over UCLA—Charlie Brown, by statistics, is the best running back in the Big Eight Conference.

Mudcat Grant Is Mele's Desperation Choice Today

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — "I've got to go with my best, and they're my best."

Minnesota Manager Sam Mele was explaining his decision to use pitchers Jim (Mudcat) Grant and Jim Kaat in an effort to halt the Los Angeles Dodgers' charge toward the World Series championship, even though both hurlers had only two days of rest.

Grant, Minnesota's starting pitcher in today's sixth game, had to come through in order for Kaat to get his chance.

Mele planned to come back with Kaat in the seventh game if the Twins got past the Dodgers' Claude Osteen today.

Both Grant and Kaat pitched during the regular season with only two days of rest—after Camilo Pascual and Dave Boswell were lost in mid-season, and the Minnesota mound staff was laboring double duty.

Grant pitched seven innings and beat the California Angels 4-1, in his only performance following a two-day rest.

Kaat hurled several times with only two days rest, but none of his appearances on such occasions came after going a full nine innings.

The Twins held a one-hour workout back in the friendly confines of Metropolitan Stadium Tuesday, and looked relieved to be home and out of Dodger Stadium where they suffered a three-loss humiliation.

Mele said he thought the Twins would break out of the hitting slump which gripped them in Los Angeles. They were out-hit 34-14 and out-scored 18-2 in Dodger Stadium.

"I think being back in our own ballpark where we can score some runs should be a big factor," Mele said.

Mele said his only complaint was it was too warm. It was 50 degrees when the Twins worked out Tuesday, and a high of 60 was forecast for today.

"It should be colder for those Dodgers," Mele quipped.

Okie Lineman Wins Top Honors

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams gave top-ranked Texas fits last Saturday before the Longhorns finally prevailed 19-0.

For his sideline to sideline heroics, the 215-pounder from White Deer, Tex., was named Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

McAdams was given the same honor last year when Texas, unbeaten and defending national champion at the time, mowed down the Sooners 28-7.

Tim ates of Alabama, another center, gave McAdams a close run for Lineman of the Week.

Adlai's Sister Slated
To Attend Testimonial
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Ernest L. Ives of Bloomington, Ill., sister of the late Adlai E. Stevenson, will attend a Stevenson memorial dinner here next Saturday, according to State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman.

The dinner is being held to help raise funds for the Stevenson Memorial Foundation.

SCO Hires Publicity Director

Paul Maple, principal in the Wilmington School system, has been hired as publicity director for the South Central Ohio League.

The action was taken yesterday afternoon during a special session of the league's executives, according to Richard Snouffer, Circleville principal.

Maple is a 1950 graduate of Ohio University. He earned his master's degree at the same school in 1964. His master's thesis was on the history of the SCOL.

Maple taught and coached at Greenfield McClain for seven years before moving to Wilmington where he served three years as head track coach and three years as assistant football coach.

IN OTHER discussion yesterday, plans for the annual fall league banquet were finalized. The event is scheduled Nov. 15.

The Rev. Charles Williams of the Washington Church of Christ will be guest speaker at the banquet.

Tear Gas Quells Jail Disturbance

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Visiting and other privileges for prisoners at the Warren County Jail have been cancelled because of a brief disturbance Tuesday that was quelled with the aid of tear gas.

Sheriff Bryon Kennard said 21 prisoners barricaded themselves in the cell block and used two large benches to block the door to the bullpen.

Deputies used tear gas to force their way inside the block housing 21 prisoners. Six prisoners, described by Kennard as ringleaders, were placed in solitary confinement.

"I don't know what their gripe was," the sheriff said. "They just decided they were going to run the jail to suit themselves."

Kennard said some of the prisoners went along with the disturbance because they feared the ringleaders.

Strip Mine Reclaiming Plan Ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—Albert Giles, Ohio's Appalachia Director, said the Appalachian Regional Development Commission would act today to release $319,085 in federal funds to reclaim three strip mines in Southeastern Ohio.

Giles reported to Gov. James A. Rhodes while the state's chief executive was here Tuesday to meet with members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Giles said the three mines in Harrison, Jefferson and Perry counties were part of a five-year reclamation plan of the Department of Natural Resources, estimated to cost $1.9 million.

The upcoming allotment, Giles said, is expected to include $83,604 to reclaim a strip mine between Steubenville and Canton in Harrison County, $80,411 for a Jefferson County project also near Steubenville, and $155,070 for a mine in Perry County between Zanesville and Lancaster.

Rhodes said $116,361 in state funds will be used with the federal money in the reclamation projects. He said $27,868 will be spent on the Harrison County project, $26,803 in the Jefferson County project and $51,690 on the Perry County project.

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—The Navy's plans for making man amphibian indicate that future man-in-the-sea experiments will be deeper, darker and more dangerous.

"I firmly believe that in four or five years man will be living at a depth of 600 feet and diving to 1,700 feet," Capt. George Bond, principal medical investigator for the recently ended Sealab 2 project, said Tuesday.

In that 45-day experiment in underwater living, 28 men in three teams manned the Sealab cylinder on the Pacific Ocean floor, 205 feet below the surface. They suffered no serious ill effects, Bond said.

"Our work was done in the face of cries that this was 'Buck Rogers' and in the face of questions from high places about its value to society or the Navy," he declared.

Tom Cassidy, Christiansen Grab Lead

Pickaway Country Club pro Tom Cassidy and his playing partner, Earl Christiansen, forged to a lead in the pro-pro, two ball tournament under way at the Churchill Valley Country Club near Pittsburgh, Pa.

The two pros Tuesday shot a tandem, 31-33-64; six under par, in the first round of the 54 hole, $10,000 tournament.

Cassidy was the first day medalist with a 66. He carded seven birdies and three bogies over the wet Churchill course.

Christiansen, of Parkersburg, W. Va., carded a pair of birdies. Both were on holes where Cassidy bogied.

AT LEAST two other teams in the event have 65s according to Cassidy. The 55 teams entered include many touring pros.

The local pro and his partner were to tee off at 1:26 p. m. today for the second round.

School Calendar Revision Is Approved by City Board

A revision of this year's city school calendar was approved during last night's regular monthly session of the Circleville Board of Education.

The school year was lengthened by four days in accordance with provisions set down by the State Department of Education. The ruling makes it necessary for school to be in session 180 days to be eligible for funds under the Foundation Program.

Students will attend school on May 31, June 1, 2, and 3, according to the revised calendar. Friday, June 3, will be the last day students will report. Teachers' Work Day, originally slated May 31, has been moved to June 6. At that time report cards will be completed and mailed to students.

Another major item drawing the school board's attention was Senate Bill No. 21, which was passed by the last session of the State Legislature. The measure deals with school boards making rules and regulations regarding the use of school premises.

THE BOARD authorized Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, to prepare a policy concerning the use of school property and "trespassing." The provision is expected to be adopted at the November meeting.

Jacobs said it is the intention of the board to encourage the use of playgrounds and other school property. But efforts to protect and guard against abuses should be made, he added.

Installation of a chain-link fence was approved for the playground area at the Mound St. building. The facility will separate the playground from the alley on the west side of the school.

A skin testing program for tuberculosis scheduled for certain grades in city schools was reviewed. Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick, city health nurse was granted approval to proceed. The project is to be conducted through the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

As a follow-up to the skin testing program, positive reactors will be X-rayed on Dec. 13. The mobile X-ray unit will be stationed at Circleville High School.

School Calendar Revision Is Approved by City Board

A revision of this year's city school calendar was approved during last night's regular monthly session of the Circleville Board of Education.

The school year was lengthened by four days in accordance with provisions set down by the State Department of Education. The ruling makes it necessary for school to be in session 180 days to be eligible for funds under the Foundation Program.

Students will attend school on May 31, June 1, 2, and 3, according to the revised calendar. Friday, June 3, will be the last day students will report. Teachers' Work Day, originally slated May 31, has been moved to June 6. At that time report cards will be completed and mailed to students.

Another major item drawing the school board's attention was Senate Bill No. 21, which was passed by the last session of the State Legislature. The measure deals with school boards making rules and regulations regarding the use of school premises.

THE BOARD authorized Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, to prepare a policy concerning the use of school property and "trespassing." The provision is expected to be adopted at the November meeting.

Jacobs said it is the intention of the board to encourage the use of playgrounds and other school property. But efforts to protect and guard against abuses should be made, he added.

Installation of a chain-link fence was approved for the playground area at the Mound St. building. The facility will separate the playground from the alley on the west side of the school.

A skin testing program for tuberculosis scheduled for certain grades in city schools was reviewed. Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick, city health nurse was granted approval to proceed. The project is to be conducted through the Pickaway County Tuberculosis, and Health Assn.

As a follow-up to the skin testing program, positive reactors will be X-rayed on Dec. 13. The mobile X-ray unit will be stationed at Circleville High School.
